March 15, 2016 -
GulfAtlantic Title & Appraisal Inc., a Tampa title company, is proud to announce that they were recently featured on the SmallBusinessTrendsetters.com website. This website offers a wealth of useful information about the financial sector, and it is a true testament to the excellent quality of work done by GulfAtlantic that they have been featured on there. The citation that they received is specifically for the training that the company offers.

"We are so pleased to have been featured on the Business Trendsetters website," says Dawn Wiser from GulfAtlantic Title & Appraisal Inc. "We want people to know about our training workshops that have been developed in response to the new TRID-RESPA rules. The training is completely free as well, so we encourage people to sign up for it as soon as possible."

The new TRID-RESPA rules were implemented on October 3, 2015. Their goal is to simplify the loan closing and disclosure process. Unfortunately, this goal is not being attained because there are so many new rules and forms, which have been confusing many experts in the industry. The training developed by the title and appraisal company has been designed to give people a greater understanding of how TRID-RESPA does make it easier for people to purchase a home.

During the training, people will be updated in full on how the TRID-RESPA rules have been implemented. It will include some sample transactions, designed to showcase real life situations. It will show professionals how they can fully comply with the new disclosures, how to complete the different forms, and how to stick to the time frames.

Those who have already taken part in the workshop have been full of praise. "I am so glad I attended the free training on TRID-RESPA rules," says one mortgage advisor in Tampa, FL. "Mortgages are a complex minefield of information, and while I now understand that the new rules make things easier, I was really confused for a certain period. Luckily, I am now able to offer once again my clients the most high-quality services, and I am happy to assist them in a quicker and easier way as well."

Those who wish to sign up for the workshop can do so directly through the GulfAtlantic Title & Appraisal Inc. website. They can also receive a wealth of other resources and training through there. The company is committed to helping people get the best possible home loans in the easiest way possible. This is why they also offer a free PDF on the 12 apps that all top selling realtors should use.
