Post Electric Expands Home Automation and Smart Technology Integration Services

January 06, 2026

Monett, MO - January 06, 2026 -
Post Electric, a licensed electrical contractor serving Southwest Missouri, announces the expansion of its residential electrical services to include comprehensive home automation and smart technology integration capabilities. The expansion addresses growing demand from homeowners seeking to modernize their electrical systems and incorporate connected home technologies.

The enhanced service offerings come after an 18-month period during which the company experienced increased requests for electrical upgrades and smart home installations. Post Electric has invested in advanced diagnostic equipment and expanded its technical expertise to serve homeowners throughout the region, particularly those with properties built before 1990 that require significant electrical infrastructure updates.

As a Post Electric Residential Electrician team member explained, the expansion encompasses several key service areas, including whole-home electrical assessments, panel upgrades to accommodate increased electrical loads, dedicated circuit installations for high-demand appliances, and integration of smart home devices and systems. The company has also enhanced its capabilities for circuit capacity assessments and comprehensive safety evaluations.

"The residential electrical landscape has evolved dramatically over the past few years, with homeowners increasingly interested in smart home technologies and energy-efficient solutions," said Ryan, Master Electrician at Post Electric. "Our expanded services allow us to provide comprehensive electrical system evaluations and implement customized upgrade solutions that meet the modern electrical demands of today's households."

The timing of this expansion aligns with regional housing trends, which show increased home improvement investments across Southwest Missouri. Many homeowners are discovering that older electrical systems cannot adequately support modern appliances, electric vehicle charging stations, and smart home technologies without significant upgrades.

Post Electric Electrical Wiring services now include specialized installations for home automation systems, smart lighting controls, programmable thermostats, security systems, and whole-home surge protection. The company maintains its commitment to using high-quality materials and the latest installation techniques to ensure safe and efficient electrical systems.

"We recognized that homeowners need a trusted partner who understands both traditional electrical systems and emerging smart home technologies," added Ryan. "Our team has undergone extensive training to ensure we can handle everything from basic electrical repairs to complex home automation installations."

The expanded services are available immediately throughout Post Electric's service area, which includes Pierce City, Verona, Aurora, Cassville, Springfield, Mount Vernon, Ozark, and Monett. The company continues to provide emergency electrical services around the clock for urgent issues and maintains its standard one-year workmanship warranty on all installations.

Post Electric is a family-owned and operated electrical contracting business with over 15 years of experience serving residential, commercial, and industrial clients throughout Southwest Missouri. The company holds all required licenses and insurance, employing a team of experienced electricians committed to delivering safe, reliable electrical solutions. Beyond residential services, Post Electric provides comprehensive commercial and industrial electrical services, including large-scale installations, machinery wiring, and routine maintenance for businesses and industrial operations throughout the region.
