Innovative Quantum Wellness Pioneers the Future of Healing Through Advanced Quantum and Bioenergetic Care

December 29, 2025

NEWPORT BEACH, CA - December 29, 2025 -
Innovative Quantum Wellness, founded by practitioner Dr. Jody Danese, D.C., L.Ac., operates as an integrative wellness center focused on exploring the relationships between energy-based methodologies, emotional wellbeing, and physical health. The center draws from concepts found in quantum science and bioenergetics, viewing the body as a complex system influenced by frequency, resonance, and environmental factors. Rather than emphasizing isolated symptoms, the practice centers on assessing broader patterns that may contribute to stress, imbalance, or reduced vitality.

One of the modalities utilized at Innovative Quantum Wellness is the Synchronicity Wave?, also referred to as the Wave System. This technology is designed to generate a structured energetic environment intended to support relaxation and coherence within the body. Practitioners use the system as part of a broader wellness framework that emphasizes observation, balance, and nervous system awareness rather than intervention or diagnosis.

The center also incorporates Rife-based frequency technology, an approach historically associated with bio-resonance research. This method involves the introduction of specific frequencies that interact with the body?s energetic field. Within the practice, frequency-based tools are used as non-invasive wellness applications aimed at supporting overall balance and resilience.

Blending traditional and modern perspectives, Innovative Quantum Wellness offers Monicor Frequency Acupuncture with Biofeedback. This system combines acupuncture principles with software-generated feedback that visually maps energetic activity during sessions. The graphical data allows both practitioner and client to observe changes throughout the process, creating a personalized experience that integrates elements of traditional Chinese medicine with contemporary monitoring technology.

Another system used at the center is NESS Health (Energy4Life), a bioenergetic assessment platform designed to identify areas of energetic variation. The system is utilized to help prioritize areas of focus within individualized wellness plans. In addition to energetic assessment, the platform provides informational insights related to nutrition and environmental influences, which practitioners may consider when discussing lifestyle factors with clients.

NESS Health also incorporates a mind-body component informed by the concept that emotional and cognitive patterns may influence overall wellbeing. Within this framework, emotional stress patterns are categorized according to neurological associations. The system includes frequency-based support tools intended to assist clients in addressing emotional stress without requiring the reliving of past experiences. These tools are presented as complementary wellness supports rather than medical treatments.

Dr. Jody Danese, D.C., L.Ac., brings more than 30 years of clinical experience to Innovative Quantum Wellness. Her practice incorporates a gentle chiropractic approach based on the Activator Method, which she has adapted over time into a personalized style. In addition to chiropractic care, Dr. Danese is a licensed acupuncturist and integrates techniques from traditional Chinese medicine, Korean hand acupuncture, needleless acupuncture, and frequency-based methodologies into individualized wellness sessions.

Innovative Quantum Wellness reflects an integrative model of care that combines emerging technologies with established holistic traditions. The center?s approach emphasizes observation, personalization, and the exploration of energy-based wellness practices within a non-invasive, client-centered environment.

###

For more information about Innovative Quantum Wellness, contact the company here:Innovative Quantum WellnessJody Danese949-637-2727drjodydanese@aol.com4020 Birch St., Suite 202Newport Beach, CA 92660

Innovative Quantum Wellness

Innovative Quantum Wellness is a holistic chiropractic and acupuncture center offering The Wave System for quantum healing and bioenergetics, aiming to reduce stress, support self-healing, and enhance overall health and energy.

Website: http://www.innovativequantumwellness.com

Email: drjodydanese@aol.com

Phone: 949-637-2727