WEST PALM BEACH, FL - February 02, 2026 -
All In Solutions Wellness Center has reinforced its commitment to addressing the emotional dimensions of addiction recovery during the critical detoxification phase, recognizing that successful treatment extends beyond physical withdrawal management to encompass comprehensive emotional support.

The Joint Commission-accredited facility in Florida has integrated enhanced emotional care protocols into its medical detoxification program, acknowledging that clients often confront difficult emotions without substances for the first time during this crucial period. The center's approach combines trauma-informed counseling, specialized staff support, and a therapeutic environment designed to help individuals process complex feelings safely during withdrawal.

"Detox is often the first time clients face their emotions head-on. By giving them a safe, supportive space to process those feelings, we set the tone for the rest of their recovery," said Keith Etienne, Nurse, LPN at the facility.
