March 28, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

With juicing being a popular trend today for those seeking a healthier lifestyle, Juicer Blender Reviews in Kent, WA, sought to find out if it is merely a fad or not by reviewing the Omega J8006 Nutrition Center and other slow juicers. It has now released a review of this particular juicer and offers information and insights as to whether or not it is beneficial for those looking to enhance their health.

Joe Abraham, spokesperson for Juice Blender Reviews, states, "Our goal is to always provide people with unbiased information about products so that they can make informed decisions about whether or not to purchase those items."

The review, which can be seen at <http://www.juicerblenderreviews.com/masticating/omega-j8006-nutrition-center/>, states that while all reviews must hold a negative or two about a particular product, the positives for this juicer far outweigh the negatives. The company that makes the juicer is very well-known according to the post, and it states that this is a slow masticating juicer, which extracts fresh juice that is vital for overall good health.

According to the review, the juicer slowly juices the fruits so as to maintain and protect the essential vitamins and nutrients found in the fruits and automatically lets out the pulp. Pulp is often the most nutritious part of the fruit or vegetable, according to various nutritional studies, and the company says that they often give positive reviews to juicers that offer pulp in the final output.

Those interested in reading more specifics on the juicer in the review can visit Juicer Blender Reviews at <http://www.juicerblenderreviews.com/articles/benefits-of-juicing-once-a-day/>, where the entire list of pros and cons for this and various other juicing machines can be seen.

The review also points out a few positive comments, stating that customers who have purchased this particular juicer find it the best way to get nutrients from greens, and one comment states that it is so quiet you can talk right beside it and hear everything that is being said. The review company states that this is definitely a plus in their book.
