Pro Guildford Roofing, a business in Guildford, Surrey, United Kingdom, are proud to announce that they have updated and relaunched their website. It is now mobile friendly, meaning that those who want to access the site through portable devices are able to get the same experience as those on desktops.

Jake Higgins, spokesperson from the company that provides professional roofing services, says: "Making sure a website is mobile responsive is vital in today's world of online marketing. Even though our business is traditionally hands on, our clients still find us using online facilities. Hence, we needed to work on making sure that our website meets modern demand. We're so happy with the results and very glad to see that some of our clients have already indicated that they appreciate our efforts."

When the company offering Pro Roofing Guildford services asked a design team to optimize the website for mobile they also took the opportunity to overhaul the rest of the content to make it more fit for purpose. The site now clearly highlights all of the important elements of the business, most particularly the residential and commercial services that they offer. Their services span the full range of roofing, from installation to removal and from maintenance to repair.

Additionally, the website now provides people with information on how they can select the best roofer for their needs. This is particularly interesting for those who are outside of the Pro Guildford Roofing catchment area. At the same time, it demonstrates just why the company is the preferred roofer for people in that particular location.

The company is also in the process of launching their social media campaign. "When we decided to overhaul our online presence, we knew that social media would be an essential part of those efforts," adds Jake Higgins. "Over the next few days, we will also launch our pages on Facebook, Twitter, Google+ and YouTube. These will all provide opportunities for people to contact us, ask us questions, leave reviews and learn more about the roofing industry, news, and about their own roofs as well. We're very excited about all of these developments."
