January 26, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

PuroClean of Redmond/Woodinville announced today that the company successfully completed more than 280 restoration projects throughout 2025, demonstrating sustained demand for professional property restoration services across the Eastside region including Kirkland, Bellevue, and surrounding communities.

The milestone reflects the ongoing need for water damage restoration and other emergency property services as weather patterns and aging infrastructure continue to impact residential and commercial properties throughout King County. The company's 24/7 emergency response team handled a diverse range of projects including water extraction, fire and smoke damage restoration, and mold remediation throughout the year.

"Completing over 280 restoration projects in a single year underscores both the critical need for professional restoration services in our community and our team's dedication to helping property owners recover from unexpected disasters," said Craig Hawkins, owner of PuroClean of Redmond/Woodinville. "Each project represents a family or business facing a crisis, and our certified technicians work to restore not just properties but peace of mind during these challenging situations."

The restoration projects addressed various property damage scenarios common to the Pacific Northwest region. Water-related incidents comprised a significant portion of the work, ranging from burst pipes during winter freezes to flooding from heavy rainfall. The company's technicians also responded to fire damage situations, sewage backups, and mold growth issues that often develop following water intrusion events.

PuroClean of Redmond/Woodinville utilizes advanced moisture detection equipment and commercial-grade extraction systems to address water damage quickly and prevent secondary issues such as mold growth. The company's QuickDry System enables efficient structural drying while minimizing disruption to property owners. Certified professionals assess each situation to determine the appropriate restoration approach, whether addressing water-soaked carpets and flooring or remediating smoke damage throughout a structure.

The volume of completed projects highlights the unpredictable nature of property damage and the importance of having established relationships with restoration professionals before emergencies occur. Property managers, insurance agents, and homeowners throughout the Eastside have relied on the company's rapid response capabilities and expertise in navigating insurance claims processes.

Looking ahead to 2025, the company anticipates continued demand for restoration services as climate variability and aging building systems present ongoing challenges for property owners. The team maintains readiness for emergency response while also focusing on education about preventive measures property owners can take to minimize damage risks.

PuroClean of Redmond/Woodinville specializes in comprehensive property restoration services, including water damage restoration, water extraction, fire and smoke damage restoration, mold remediation, and biohazard cleanup. The company serves residential, commercial, and institutional clients throughout the Eastside region with 24/7 emergency response capabilities. Certified technicians use EPA-registered disinfectants and proven restoration procedures to return properties to pre-damage conditions while working directly with insurance providers to streamline the claims process.
