January 15, 2026

LAS VEGAS, NV - January 15, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Cobalt Keys LLC, a Las Vegas-based public relations and communications services firm, has announced its exclusive dual certification as an official partner with both Clay.com and Instantly.ai, positioning the company among a select group of organizations worldwide to achieve this distinction. This strategic partnership certification enables the firm to deliver advanced artificial intelligence solutions combined with sophisticated email marketing capabilities to help businesses establish market leadership.

The partnership certifications represent a significant development in the digital marketing landscape, as few firms possess the technical expertise and proven track record required to achieve certified partner status with both platforms simultaneously. This dual certification allows Cobalt Keys LLC to integrate cutting-edge AI automation tools with data-driven marketing strategies, creating comprehensive growth solutions for professional corporations and their executives.

"Achieving certified partner status with both Clay.com and Instantly.ai demonstrates our commitment to providing clients with the most advanced marketing technologies available," said Cynthia Hoyt of Cobalt Keys LLC. "These partnerships enable us to analyze competitive landscapes, identify market opportunities, and deploy targeted campaigns that consistently deliver measurable results for our clients."

The company's approach combines artificial intelligence analysis with strategic Email Marketing to help businesses identify gaps in their online presence that may be giving competitors an advantage. Through AI-powered automation, the firm develops and deploys relevant offers tailored for both outbound marketing and ongoing client engagement, ensuring every brand interaction is strategically targeted and optimized for conversion.

Brand Visibility remains a core focus of the company's service offerings. The firm crafts customized marketing plans designed to establish robust online assets that strengthen market presence and help businesses transition from competing to leading in their respective industries. This comprehensive approach addresses multiple aspects of digital marketing, including organic traffic generation, media coverage, and content marketing strategies.

The certification partnerships enhance the company's ability to serve businesses seeking growth without traditional advertising expenditure. By leveraging AI automation and sophisticated email marketing systems, clients can achieve sustainable growth through data-driven strategies rather than paid advertising campaigns.

Cobalt Keys LLC specializes in helping professional corporations and executives establish authority in competitive markets through enhanced online brand presence, client attraction strategies, and revenue optimization.
