March 23, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

SoulsticeWellness.com presents a new service made to highlight the idea that every woman deserves to get the body they want, especially those who made the effort to give birth to a new life ? mothers. The clinic?s new service, Peri-Operative Therapy, is now a specialized practice for those who have undergone Mommy Makeover plastic surgery in Denver.

With their mother-centric therapy, they aim to treat individuals who went through operations commonly referred to as Mommy Makeovers. These are breast lifts, tummy tucks, and liposuction. Each of these can incur trauma in the body because it is a form of physical invasion. The clinic emphasizes that it?s in these practices that the treated part of the body gets traumatized, which delays the recuperation process.

The Peri-Operative Therapy that the clinic is offering is a pre and post-surgical treatment that alleviates pain and expedites the process of healing. It emphasizes an improved rehabilitation process, which triggers an acceleration in the client?s recovery by the softening of the scar tissue and reducing swelling and bruising.

Soulstice Wellness? Peri-Operative Therapy for Mommy Makeover plastic surgery in Denver manual techniques highlight the pain-free touch approach to clients who are about to be or are already in a post-operative, highly sensitive state. They boast that their techniques address the complication of inflammation and the increased flow of endorphins in the system. The therapy leads the system away from further inflammation, which causes deterioration of cells. Furthermore, the increase in the flow of endorphins in the system will impose an over-all relaxation.
