The DisabilityGuys.com has reported that three years ago, Westfield Communications decided to begin honoring family-owned businesses in the Westchester and Fairfield counties who have been noted to be exceptional. This year, one of the recipients is the disability and injury law firm, Markhoff & Mittman, P.C., known by their community as "The Disability Guys."

The firm was established in 1933 and has been family-owned for three generations. The Markhoff & Mittman team has dedicated their time to assisting anyone who has been injured on the job by helping with workers' compensation claims, social security disability claims, and personal injury lawsuits. They believe that injured workers are entitled to the compensation they need to heal and move on with their lives.

Every year, thousands of New York employees are hurt while on the job. Even though workers' compensation and social security disability benefits exist to help those who have been injured and are unable to return to work, it is often difficult to obtain compensation due to confusing application processes and unexpected denials. Dealing with the stress of a physical injury in addition to the strain of financial issues brought on by medical expenses and lost wages is enough to make anyone feel like there is no hope.

In order to get what they both need and deserve, injured workers often have to consult with an attorney. The attorneys at Markhoff & Mittman P.C. have assisted workers from all types of industries, including construction workers, city and state employees, airline workers, healthcare workers, truck drivers, electricians, police officers, and firefighters. Their clients have been injured in a wide variety of accidents such as car accidents, slip and falls, construction accidents, and those which create chronic injuries due to repetitive motions. Former clients have remarked on the team's caring attitude, professionalism, excellent communication, and the clear explanations of each step of the process they provide.

The firm is proud of the way they have helped thousands get back on their feet after an accident and look forward to continuing this legacy for many years to come. For more information, contact The Disability Guys at (866) 205-2415.
