AccuTemp Cooling and Heating Emphasizes Critical Furnace Repair Services as Shreveport Temperatures Drop

January 22, 2026

Shreveport, Louisiana - January 22, 2026 -
AccuTemp Cooling and Heating, a leading HVAC contractor serving Shreveport and surrounding Louisiana communities, is reminding homeowners about the importance of timely furnace repair as cooler weather arrives across northwest Louisiana.

With temperatures beginning to drop throughout Shreveport, Bossier City, Benton, Haughton, and Stonewall, the company is highlighting the critical nature of heating system maintenance and repair services to ensure residents stay comfortable and safe during the colder months ahead. The HVAC contractor, which has served the region since 2004, reports an increase in service calls related to heating systems that have remained dormant throughout the summer months.

"As temperatures start declining, many homeowners discover their heating systems need attention after sitting unused for several months," said Duane Simpson, Service Manager at AccuTemp Cooling and Heating. "Regular maintenance and prompt repairs can prevent unexpected breakdowns when families need heat the most. We encourage residents to test their systems now rather than waiting for the first truly cold night."

The company provides comprehensive heating repair and maintenance services throughout northwest Louisiana, including specialized furnace repair for both residential and commercial properties. Their certified technicians handle everything from routine maintenance to emergency repairs, ensuring heating systems operate efficiently and reliably throughout the winter season.

Beyond heating services, AccuTemp Cooling and Heating offers a complete range of HVAC solutions, including air conditioning installation and repair, commercial HVAC maintenance, advanced carbon monoxide detector installation, and home backup generator services. The company maintains a BBB A+ rating and has earned more than 448 five-star customer reviews for their commitment to quality service and customer satisfaction.

"Proper heating system maintenance goes beyond comfort - it's about safety and efficiency," added Simpson. "A well-maintained furnace operates more efficiently, reducing energy costs and extending equipment life. More importantly, regular service helps identify potential carbon monoxide risks and other safety concerns before they become serious problems."

The company serves an extensive area, including Shreveport, Bossier City, Benton, Haughton, Stonewall, Princeton, Oil City, Mooringsport, and Keithville. Their team of experienced technicians provides 24/7 emergency service, ensuring residents have access to heating repairs whenever problems arise.
