Post Electric Expands Commercial Electrical Services Throughout Aurora and Southwest Missouri

January 23, 2026

Monett, MO - January 23, 2026 -
Post Electric, a licensed electrical contractor serving Southwest Missouri for over 15 years, has announced the expansion of its commercial electrical services throughout Aurora and the surrounding region. The expansion addresses increasing demand from businesses seeking reliable electrical solutions as the area experiences continued commercial development.

The company's enhanced service capacity enables faster response times for commercial clients requiring electrical installations, upgrades, and maintenance services. Post Electric Commercial operations now include expanded capabilities for new construction wiring, lighting system installations, electrical panel upgrades, and emergency repair services for businesses throughout Aurora, Springfield, Cassville, and neighboring communities.

"Aurora's business community continues to grow, and we recognized the need for dependable commercial electrical services that can keep pace with that growth," said Ryan, owner of Post Electric. "Our expanded commercial division allows us to serve more businesses while maintaining the quality standards and response times our clients expect."

The expansion includes additional licensed electricians trained specifically in commercial electrical systems, upgraded equipment for handling larger-scale projects, and enhanced scheduling systems to accommodate both routine maintenance and emergency service calls. The company's commercial services encompass everything from basic electrical repairs to complex industrial installations, with all work performed according to local codes and safety regulations.

Post Electric Residential services continue to operate alongside the expanded commercial division, ensuring homeowners throughout Southwest Missouri maintain access to professional electrical services. The dual focus allows the company to serve the complete spectrum of electrical needs within the communities it serves.

Commercial clients benefit from the company's extensive experience with various business types, including retail establishments, office buildings, warehouses, and manufacturing facilities. The technical expertise of Post Electric's team enables them to address the unique electrical requirements different businesses face, from high-capacity power systems to specialized lighting configurations.

"We understand that electrical issues can significantly impact business operations," Ryan explained. "That's why we've structured our commercial services to provide both preventive maintenance and rapid emergency response. Minimizing downtime for our commercial clients remains a top priority."

The expansion represents Post Electric's commitment to supporting regional economic development by ensuring businesses have access to professional electrical services. The company's investment in additional training, equipment, and technology positions it to handle the increasing complexity of modern commercial electrical systems while maintaining competitive pricing structures.

Post Electric maintains full licensing and insurance coverage for all commercial and residential projects. The family-owned and operated business has built its reputation on combining technical expertise with reliable service delivery throughout its 15-year history in Southwest Missouri. The company provides free estimates for commercial projects and offers comprehensive warranties on all workmanship. Service areas include Pierce City, Verona, Aurora, Cassville, Springfield, Mount Vernon, Ozark, and Monett.
