

A Touch of Class Transportation Marks Decades of Service with Expanded Central California Coverage and Consistently High Customer Ratings

January 26, 2026

FRESNO, CA - January 26, 2026 -
A Touch of Class Transportation, a long-standing limousine and car service provider, announced the continued expansion and refinement of its transportation services across Central California, reinforcing its role as a dependable mobility option for both private and corporate clients. The announcement coincides with the company maintaining a 4.8 out of 5 customer rating on Google, reflecting sustained customer satisfaction across completed trips.

With operational roots spanning several decades, A Touch of Class Transportation has steadily adapted to changes in travel demand while maintaining consistent service standards. The company provides scheduled and on-demand ground transportation nationwide, with a primary focus on Fresno and surrounding communities, including Clovis, Visalia, Madera, Tulare, Chowchilla, and Selma.

?Our focus has always been reliability,? said a company representative. ?Clients depend on us for time-sensitive travel, whether that?s an early-morning airport transfer, a corporate itinerary, or long-distance city travel. The longevity of our operations reflects that trust.?

The company?s service offerings cover a wide range of transportation needs, including professional limo service in Fresno for both personal and business travel. Airport transportation remains one of the most frequently requested services, supporting travel to and from major regional airports. Corporate transportation services are structured to meet the scheduling and privacy needs of business travelers, while non-medical transportation provides a dependable alternative for individuals requiring reliable mobility without clinical transport.

Additional services include chauffeur service, black car transportation, city-to-city travel, and scheduled transport to parks and mountain destinations. These offerings are increasingly used by clients seeking planned travel options that reduce the burden of driving long distances or coordinating group transportation.

A Touch of Class Transportation operates a diverse fleet that includes sedans, SUVs, and party buses available in the Fresno area. Vehicles are cleaned daily and maintained according to internal inspection protocols. Interiors are designed for passenger comfort and functionality, offering climate control, spacious seating, and amenities suited for both short and extended trips.

Chauffeurs play a central role in the company?s operations. All drivers are professionally trained, experienced, and familiar with regional routes and traffic patterns. Chauffeurs are required to adhere to standards covering appearance, conduct, and customer interaction, ensuring consistent service across all ride types.

Customer feedback has been a key performance indicator for the company. The current 4.8/5 Google rating reflects recurring themes cited in public reviews, including punctual arrivals, courteous chauffeurs, and clean vehicles. According to company records, a significant portion of new bookings originates from repeat customers and referrals, indicating long-term client retention.

While national service capability remains in place, A Touch of Class Transportation continues to emphasize its Central California operations. The company reports increased demand for city-to-city transportation within the region, particularly for Fresno-to-Visalia and Fresno-to-Madera routes, as well as transport related to seasonal travel and regional events.

Industry observers note that Fresno ground transportation providers with established operational histories are often better positioned to manage logistical complexity and fluctuating travel volumes. A Touch of Class Transportation?s sustained presence in the market reflects an operational model built on consistency rather than rapid expansion.

Looking forward, the company plans to continue refining scheduling systems and vehicle availability to accommodate regional growth while maintaining service reliability. No changes to ownership or core operations were announced.

For clients, the company?s positioning remains practical rather than aspirational: timely arrivals, professional conduct, and dependable vehicles. In an industry where service interruptions and inconsistency are common complaints, A Touch of Class Transportation continues to emphasize operational stability as its defining feature.
