January 26, 2026

AUBURN, AL - January 26, 2026 -
Auburn Black Cars, a chauffeured transportation company based in Auburn, Alabama, continues to provide private black car and SUV services to clients traveling throughout Alabama and Georgia. The company operates with a focus on reliability, regional familiarity, and professional service for airport transfers, events, corporate travel, and private transportation.

Auburn Black Cars was founded and is owned and operated by Scott Fox, whose family has longstanding ties to Auburn University. Fox is a second-generation Auburn alumnus, and his family?s connection to the university extends to a third generation, with a family member entering Auburn as part of the freshman class of 2025. This multigenerational relationship with the area has influenced the company?s emphasis on community presence and local understanding.

The company employs chauffeurs who live in Auburn and Birmingham, providing them with practical knowledge of regional roadways, traffic patterns, and destinations. This familiarity supports efficient transportation planning across East Alabama, Central Alabama, and West Georgia, particularly during peak travel periods such as university events, major sporting weekends, and regional conferences.

Auburn Black Cars provides private transportation services using black SUVs and executive-style vehicles. Offerings include airport transportation to and from major regional airports, including Atlanta, Birmingham, and Montgomery. These services are designed for travelers seeking scheduled, point-to-point transportation without the variability often associated with on-demand rides.

In addition to airport transfers, Auburn Black Cars offers hourly transportation and chauffeur services for clients requiring flexibility throughout the day. These services are commonly used for business travel, multi-stop itineraries, and private engagements where timing and coordination are important.

Event transportation is another core service area. Auburn Black Cars provides transportation for concerts, sporting events, weddings, and private celebrations. The company also supports fraternity and sorority events, offering pre-arranged transportation options for groups attending formals, socials, and university-related functions. These services are structured to accommodate event schedules and group logistics while maintaining consistent transportation arrangements.

Corporate transportation services are available for executives, visiting professionals, and corporate groups. These services are frequently utilized for meetings, site visits, conferences, and client transportation. Auburn Black Cars works directly with corporate clients to coordinate schedules and routing that align with business travel requirements.

The company also offers limousine service options and regional wine tours, serving individuals and small groups seeking planned transportation for leisure activities. Wine tours are arranged to allow passengers to travel between destinations without the need to manage driving or parking, supporting a relaxed and organized experience.

Auburn Black Cars serves a multi-state area that includes Auburn and Opelika, Alabama, as well as Montgomery and Birmingham. Service is also provided in Columbus and LaGrange, Georgia, with extended transportation available to and from Atlanta. This coverage allows the company to support both local travel and longer-distance transportation needs within the Southeast.

Rather than positioning itself around expansion or new service launches, Auburn Black Cars emphasizes continuity and consistency in its operations. The company focuses on maintaining service standards through vehicle upkeep, scheduling accuracy, and chauffeur professionalism. Vehicles are regularly maintained, and reservations are handled through advance booking to support predictable service delivery.

?Our focus is on providing dependable transportation for clients who value planning, professionalism, and local familiarity,? said Scott Fox, Owner of Auburn Black Cars. ?We?ve built the company around understanding the region and offering a transportation option that fits a wide range of travel needs.?

As Auburn and surrounding communities continue to host university activities, business travel, and regional events, Auburn Black Cars remains positioned as a locally owned transportation provider serving residents, visitors, and organizations throughout Alabama and Georgia.

Auburn Black Cars accepts reservations for airport transportation, corporate travel, event transportation, and private services year-round.
