March 06, 2026

Monett, MO - March 06, 2026 -
Post Electric, a professional electrical contractor serving Southwest Missouri, has announced the expansion of its industrial and residential electrical services to meet growing demand across the region. The company's enhanced service capabilities aim to address the increasing need for specialized electrical solutions in both manufacturing facilities and homes throughout Aurora and surrounding communities.

The expansion comes as Southwest Missouri experiences continued growth in both its industrial sector and residential development. Post Electric Industrial services now encompass comprehensive electrical solutions for manufacturing facilities, warehouses, and processing plants, including large-scale installations, machinery wiring, system upgrades, and preventive maintenance programs. The company's team of licensed electricians brings over 15 years of experience to complex industrial projects requiring specialized expertise and adherence to strict safety protocols.

"We recognized a significant gap in the availability of reliable industrial electrical contractors who understand the unique demands of manufacturing and industrial operations," said Ryan, owner of Post Electric. "Our expansion allows us to serve industrial clients with the same commitment to quality and safety that our residential customers have come to expect. Whether it's a critical machinery installation or routine maintenance, we ensure minimal downtime and maximum efficiency for our industrial partners."

The family-owned and operated business maintains its strong foundation in Post Electric Residential services while adding specialized industrial capabilities. Residential customers continue to receive comprehensive electrical services ranging from basic repairs and lighting installations to complete home rewiring and electrical system upgrades. The company's 24/7 emergency service availability ensures both homeowners and industrial facilities receive prompt attention when urgent electrical issues arise.

As part of the expansion initiative, Post Electric has invested in advanced diagnostic equipment and specialized training for its electrician team. The company's technicians regularly participate in continuing education programs to stay current with evolving electrical codes, safety regulations, and emerging technologies in both industrial and residential applications. This commitment to ongoing professional development ensures all work meets or exceeds local codes and industry standards.

The expansion also includes enhanced service coverage throughout Southwest Missouri, with Post Electric now serving Pierce City, Verona, Aurora, Cassville, Springfield, Mount Vernon, Ozark, and Monett. The company offers free estimates for all projects and maintains comprehensive insurance coverage for both industrial and residential work. Each installation includes a one-year workmanship warranty, reflecting the company's confidence in its service quality.

Post Electric specializes in electrical contracting services for residential, commercial, and industrial clients throughout Southwest Missouri. The licensed and insured contractor combines traditional craftsmanship with modern techniques to deliver safe, efficient electrical installations. With over 15 years of industry experience, the company has built its reputation on using high-quality materials, maintaining strict safety standards, and providing reliable service to communities across the region.
