February 13, 2026

WINTERTHUR, CH - February 13, 2026 -

OMN | Next Gen SEO & KI-Marketing Schweiz, a Winterthur-based digital marketing agency, has announced the expansion of its AI-powered SEO and content automation services to help Swiss B2B companies navigate the rapidly evolving digital marketing landscape. The agency is implementing advanced entity SEO strategies and generative engine optimization techniques specifically tailored for the Swiss market.

As artificial intelligence continues to reshape how businesses approach online marketing, OMN is addressing a critical need among Swiss small and medium enterprises (KMU) who struggle to maintain competitive digital presence without excessive advertising budgets. The agency's enhanced services combine 17 years of digital marketing expertise with cutting-edge AI technology to deliver measurable results for businesses across Switzerland's multilingual regions.

"The digital marketing landscape in Switzerland is undergoing a fundamental transformation as AI becomes integral to search engine optimization and content creation," said E. Niederer, founder of OMN. "Swiss B2B companies need strategies that go beyond traditional SEO to embrace entity-based optimization and semantic search capabilities. Our approach helps businesses achieve sustainable growth without relying on costly advertising campaigns."

The agency maintains an active presence on social media, with regular updates shared through the OMN KI SEO Facebook page and educational content published on the OMN YouTube channel. These platforms serve as resources for Swiss businesses seeking to understand the evolving digital marketing landscape and the role of AI in modern SEO strategies.

The expanded services include AI-powered lead generation, semantic copywriting, Google Business Optimization, and automated content distribution across multiple channels including MSN Publishing. The agency's proprietary approach has demonstrated significant results, with clients experiencing an average 240 percent improvement in lead quality while reducing their dependence on traditional advertising spend.

OMN's methodology addresses the unique challenges of the Swiss market, including optimization for German, French, and Italian language regions. The agency's AI-driven systems analyze market trends in real-time, enabling businesses to adapt their digital strategies quickly to changing consumer behaviors and search patterns. This approach is particularly relevant as search engines increasingly prioritize semantic understanding and entity relationships over traditional keyword matching.

Recent developments in generative AI and large language models have created new opportunities and challenges for businesses seeking online visibility. OMN's services help companies prepare for these changes by implementing structured data, optimizing for voice search, and ensuring their digital assets are properly understood by AI systems that increasingly mediate between businesses and their potential customers.
