

Juicer Blender Reviews Releases New Kuvings B6000 Whole Slow Juicer Review

April 04, 2016

April 04, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Juicer Blender Reviews has announced that they have posted a new review that looks at the Kuvings B6000 Whole Slow Juicer, determining whether or not it is worth the investment. The company, which is based in Kent, WA, has placed itself as a major resource for reviews on blenders and juicers. Their goal is to enable people to make the right consumer decisions for their own personal needs. The review of the Kuvings B6000, which has already attracted a lot of attention, can be found at <http://www.juicerblenderreviews.com/masticating/kuvings-b6000/>.

Joe Abraham from Juicer Blender Reviews says: "Our goal is to make sure people can obtain the health benefits offered by juicers and blenders without wasting any money. So many people spend hundreds of dollars on these devices, only to find that they are not fit for purpose. We want to make sure that they can avoid this, and we're very happy to see that our review of the Kuvings B6000 is proving to be a popular one."

For the company, as can be seen on their website <http://www.juicerblenderreviews.com>, the goal is to make sure people have all the information they need about juicers and blenders, going above and beyond what the manufacturers will mention in their own advertisements. In terms of the Kuvings B6000, they discuss all the benefits that the juicer offers, including the fact that it makes high quality juices, and in high quantities as well. Additionally, they discuss the safety features of the device.

Juicer Blender Reviews also highlights some of the disadvantages. These include the observation that the price is quite high, and that some people have noted the stopper breaking, although they haven't experienced this themselves. Putting these things into perspective, the company wholeheartedly recommends the device.

Joe Abraham also encourages people to like the company's Facebook page, which can be accessed at <https://www.facebook.com/JuicerBlenderReviews>. "We share our reviews on our Facebook page as well, enabling people to get involved in the discussion and talk about their own experiences," he adds. "Furthermore, if there is a device that they would like us to review in particular, they can request it through there as well."
