

Premier Medical Expands Access to Primary Care with Walk-In Clinic Services in Charleston County

February 19, 2026

February 19, 2026 -
Premier Medical, a locally-owned healthcare provider in Charleston County, continues to address the growing need for accessible healthcare by offering comprehensive primary care services through its walk-in clinic model. The physician-led practice operates two locations in James Island and North Charleston, providing immediate medical attention without the traditional barriers of appointment scheduling.

The healthcare provider has positioned itself as an alternative to both traditional appointment-based practices and emergency room visits for non-life-threatening conditions. Premier Medical primary care walk-in clinic services encompass preventive health screenings, chronic disease management, and immediate treatment for minor injuries and illnesses, all available during extended hours to accommodate varying patient schedules.

"Healthcare accessibility remains a critical challenge in our community, and our walk-in model removes the common obstacles that prevent people from seeking timely medical attention," said Dr. Karey Breen, physician at Premier Medical. "By combining the convenience of walk-in availability with the comprehensive nature of primary care services, we ensure patients receive continuous, quality healthcare rather than fragmented episodic treatment."

The clinic's primary care services focus on establishing long-term patient relationships while maintaining the flexibility of immediate access. This approach allows for better management of chronic conditions including diabetes, high blood pressure, thyroid disease, and high cholesterol, while also providing routine health screenings, sports physicals, and preventive care measures.

Premier Medical's walk-in primary care model addresses several healthcare access challenges facing Charleston County residents. Extended operating hours accommodate patients who cannot visit during traditional business hours, while the no-appointment-necessary policy ensures immediate attention for urgent health concerns. The clinic accepts various insurance plans and offers affordable healthcare options to make services accessible to a broader patient population.

The integration of urgent care capabilities within the primary care framework allows Premier Medical to handle a wide spectrum of medical needs. Patients can receive treatment for conditions ranging from respiratory infections and urinary tract infections to allergic reactions and minor injuries, all while maintaining continuity of care with consistent medical providers who understand their health history.

"The traditional healthcare model often creates gaps between urgent needs and ongoing care," noted Dr. Breen. "Our integrated approach ensures that whether a patient comes in for a sudden illness or a routine check-up, they receive care within a comprehensive framework that considers their complete health picture."

Premier Medical in Charleston County distinguishes itself through its physician-led, locally-owned structure. The on-site physician owners actively participate in daily operations, ensuring personalized attention and maintaining direct involvement in patient care decisions. This hands-on approach contrasts with corporate healthcare models, allowing for more flexible and patient-centered care delivery.

The clinic also provides specialized services, including women's health examinations, pediatric care, Department of Transportation examinations, and coordination of specialist referrals when needed. This comprehensive service offering positions Premier Medical as a complete primary care solution for families throughout Charleston County.

Premier Medical operates as a physician-owned healthcare provider dedicated to delivering accessible, comprehensive medical care to Charleston County residents. The practice maintains two clinic locations and focuses on removing traditional healthcare barriers through extended hours, walk-in availability, and integrated primary and urgent care services.
