February 20, 2026

MANLIUS, NY - February 20, 2026 -
Summit Scapes Construction, a hardscape and landscape company serving Central New York, emphasizes its lawn care services as part of comprehensive property maintenance solutions. This focus supports clients in achieving healthy outdoor spaces that withstand seasonal changes, integrating with the company's established offerings in landscaping and hardscaping.

The lawn care services in Manlius, NY, provided by Summit Scapes Construction include regular mowing, fertilization, weed control, aeration, and overseeding. These elements address common challenges in the region, such as soil compaction and nutrient depletion from harsh winters. By incorporating these practices, properties maintain turf density and color, contributing to overall landscape integrity.

In addition to core maintenance, the services encompass pest management and disease prevention, tailored to local climate conditions. Summit Scapes Construction applies integrated pest management techniques that minimize chemical use, aligning with environmental considerations. This approach ensures lawns remain robust without compromising surrounding ecosystems.

The company combines lawn care with its landscaping services, which feature tree and shrub care. This integration creates cohesive outdoor environments where softscape elements complement hardscape features like patios and retaining walls. Clients benefit from unified designs that enhance functionality and aesthetic appeal across residential and commercial properties.

Summit Scapes Construction also handles yard drainage systems as part of its installations, preventing water-related issues that can affect lawn health. Proper drainage mitigates erosion and standing water, common in areas with significant precipitation and snowfall. These systems support sustainable water management, reducing runoff and promoting soil absorption.

With 13 years of experience, the company has developed methods that adapt to evolving property needs. Recent enhancements in outdoor living services, including fire pits and permeable pavers, pair with lawn care to create multifunctional spaces. Permeable materials allow water infiltration, benefiting adjacent turf areas by maintaining moisture balance.

Jared Van Der Veer, Owner of Summit Scapes Construction, shared, "Our team focuses on details that ensure long-term performance of both hard and soft landscape components."

The emphasis on lawn care services comes amid trends toward sustainable property management. Industry data indicates increased adoption of practices that reduce water usage and chemical inputs. Summit Scapes Construction incorporates native plants and organic amendments where appropriate, fostering biodiversity in managed landscapes.

Commercial clients, including those requiring snow removal during winter months, transition seamlessly to lawn care in warmer seasons. This year-round approach minimizes disruptions and maintains consistent property conditions. The company's fleet and trained personnel handle shifts between services efficiently.

Residential properties in Central New York face unique challenges from freeze-thaw cycles, which can damage turf roots. Summit Scapes Construction's aeration services in spring and fall alleviate compaction, improving air and water penetration. Overseeding with regionally adapted grass varieties enhances resilience against drought and foot traffic.

Fertilization programs follow soil test results, applying nutrients at optimal times to avoid excess runoff. Weed control targets invasive species without broad-spectrum herbicides, preserving beneficial organisms in the soil. These methods contribute to healthier lawns that require less intervention over time.

Pest management includes monitoring for common issues like grubs and chinch bugs, with treatments applied only when thresholds are met. This proactive stance prevents widespread infestations while maintaining ecological balance. Clients receive guidance on cultural practices, such as proper mowing height, to support service outcomes.

The integration of lawn care with hardscaping exemplifies Summit Scapes Construction's holistic methodology. Retaining walls and walkways define spaces, while lawns provide green buffers that soften structures. This combination results in balanced landscapes that serve practical and recreational purposes.

"As we mark our 13th year, commitment to comprehensive care remains central," said Jared Van Der Veer, Owner of Summit Scapes Construction. "Lawn care services play a key role in creating enduring outdoor spaces that clients value season after season."

Summit Scapes Construction continues to adapt its offerings based on client feedback and industry advancements. The focus on lawn care services reinforces the company's position in providing complete outdoor solutions.
