LONGWOOD, FL - March 02, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Stages of Life Medical Institute in Orlando is drawing attention to Rhubestryn as a natural alternative for women seeking relief from menopausal symptoms. The Longwood-based pain control and wellness clinic emphasizes the growing interest in plant-based options for managing the physical and emotional challenges associated with menopause.

Rhubestryn, derived from rhubarb root extract, has gained recognition in the medical community for its potential to address common menopausal concerns including hot flashes, night sweats, and mood fluctuations. The compound contains naturally occurring phytoestrogens that may help support hormonal balance without synthetic hormone replacement.

"Women experiencing menopause deserve comprehensive options that align with their personal health philosophy," said Dr. Klein of Stages of Life Medical Institute. "Rhubestryn represents an important addition to our treatment protocols, particularly for patients who prefer botanical approaches or cannot use traditional hormone replacement therapy due to medical contraindications."

The spotlight on Rhubestryn comes as healthcare providers nationwide report increased patient inquiries about natural menopause management strategies. Recent clinical studies have suggested that rhubarb root extract may offer measurable benefits for menopausal symptom relief, with some research indicating improvements in quality of life scores among women using the supplement regularly.

Stages of Life Medical Institute incorporates Rhubestryn discussions into its comprehensive approach to women's health and hormone management. The clinic's on-site laboratory capabilities allow for precise hormone level monitoring, enabling practitioners to track patient progress and adjust treatment recommendations based on individual responses.

The integration of natural options like Rhubestryn reflects broader trends in personalized medicine, where treatment plans are tailored to patient preferences, medical history, and lifestyle factors. This approach proves particularly relevant for menopause management, as women experience varying symptom patterns and severity levels throughout their transition.

"The availability of natural alternatives empowers our patients to make informed decisions about their health journey through menopause," noted Dr. Klein. "By offering education about options like Rhubestryn alongside our traditional therapies, we support each woman in finding the most appropriate path for her unique situation."

The veteran-owned medical institute maintains its commitment to diagnostic-first healthcare, utilizing advanced testing to understand each patient's hormonal profile before recommending treatment options. This methodical approach helps identify which patients might benefit most from natural supplements versus other interventions.

Stages of Life Medical Institute specializes in pain management, hormone replacement therapy, and age-related health concerns. The clinic serves the Central Florida community with comprehensive diagnostic services, including on-site laboratory testing, cognitive evaluations, and specialized treatments for chronic pain conditions. Founded by Dr. David S. Klein, who brings over 35 years of medical experience, the institute combines multiple medical sub-specialties to deliver integrated care in a patient-centered environment.
