

Keathley Landscaping Expands Custom Patio Covers and Pergolas Services in North Texas

March 27, 2026

GARLAND, TX - March 27, 2026 -
Keathley Landscaping has expanded its custom covered patio and pergola construction services throughout North Texas, responding to increased homeowner demand for enhanced outdoor living spaces. The Dallas-based landscaping company, which has been operating since 2002, specializes in designing and building handcrafted structures that transform ordinary backyards into private sanctuaries.

The expansion encompasses a broader range of design options and materials for parker patio covers, including traditional wood construction, modern aluminum designs, and hybrid solutions that combine multiple materials. Each structure is engineered to provide optimal shade coverage while maintaining aesthetic appeal that enhances property value.

"Homeowners are recognizing that well-designed outdoor structures significantly extend their living space and create year-round entertainment areas," said Logan Keathley, owner of Keathley Landscaping. "Our expanded services allow us to deliver more customized solutions that address specific needs while complementing existing landscape and architectural elements."

The company's approach to creating custom pergolas parker residents request begins with understanding how clients envision using their outdoor areas. Design specialists work closely with homeowners to develop plans that integrate seamlessly with existing landscaping. Each project is constructed on-site, allowing for precise customization and adaptation to unique yard configurations.

Beyond patio covers and pergolas, the company offers comprehensive outdoor improvement services including landscape design and installation, stonework and retaining walls, outdoor kitchens, firepits, landscape lighting, and drainage solutions. As a certified NDS drainage contractor, the company also addresses complex yard drainage issues that often accompany outdoor construction projects.

The structures are built using premium materials selected specifically for durability and resistance to Texas weather conditions. This ensures longevity and minimal maintenance requirements while maintaining the structural integrity needed to withstand seasonal weather variations common in North Texas.

"Quality craftsmanship and attention to detail are fundamental to every project we undertake," added Keathley. "Whether clients want a simple shade structure or an elaborate outdoor entertainment area, we focus on creating spaces that add both comfort and value to their properties."

The expanded service offerings come as North Texas continues to experience residential growth and homeowners increasingly invest in outdoor improvements. Industry data indicates that outdoor living space enhancements consistently rank among the top home improvement projects for return on investment.

Keathley Landscaping serves Dallas, Allen, Plano, Garland, Wylie, Parker, and surrounding North Texas communities. Since its founding, the company has completed hundreds of residential projects, establishing itself as a trusted partner for homeowners seeking professional landscape and outdoor construction services. The company's comprehensive approach allows clients to coordinate multiple improvements for cohesive outdoor transformations, from initial landscape design through final construction and ongoing maintenance.
