March 17, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

RestoPros of MetroWest-Worcester marks a significant milestone this year, celebrating over 20 years of providing emergency restoration services to homeowners and businesses throughout the MetroWest and Worcester regions. The company has established itself as a trusted partner for property owners facing unexpected damage from water, fire, mold, and storm-related incidents.

Since its founding, the Sudbury-based restoration company has responded to thousands of emergency calls, helping local residents and businesses recover from devastating property damage events. The company's round-the-clock availability and certified restoration professionals have made it a cornerstone of disaster recovery efforts across more than 30 communities, including Framingham, Marlborough, Natick, Newton, Shrewsbury, and Worcester.

"Reaching this 20-year milestone represents more than just longevity in business; it reflects the deep trust our community has placed in us during their most challenging moments," said Abby Kaufman of RestoPros of MetroWest-Worcester. "Every call we receive represents a family or business owner facing an unexpected crisis, and being able to provide reliable support during these times has been both our privilege and responsibility."

The company's comprehensive approach to Water Damage Restoration has evolved significantly over two decades, incorporating advanced extraction equipment, industrial-grade drying technology, and sophisticated moisture detection tools. This technical expertise, combined with extensive experience handling insurance claims, has streamlined the recovery process for countless property owners throughout the region.

Beyond emergency response, the company has developed specialized expertise in addressing the unique restoration challenges common to New England properties, from frozen pipe incidents during harsh winters to basement flooding during spring thaws. The team's understanding of local building materials, construction methods, and weather patterns has proven invaluable in delivering effective restoration solutions tailored to regional needs.

The company's growth over two decades has paralleled the expansion of the MetroWest region itself, with service areas now extending from Boston's western neighborhoods through the Interstate 495 corridor. This geographic reach ensures rapid response times for emergencies, with technicians strategically positioned to reach any location within their service area promptly.

Looking ahead, RestoPros of MetroWest-Worcester remains committed to maintaining its high standards of service while adapting to emerging challenges in property restoration. The company continues to invest in training programs for its technicians, ensuring they remain current with industry best practices and restoration technologies.

The company operates from its headquarters at 75 Union Avenue in Sudbury, maintaining a 24-hour emergency response capability seven days a week. With certifications from leading industry organizations and comprehensive insurance coverage, the company provides both residential and commercial restoration services including water extraction, structural drying, mold remediation, fire and smoke damage restoration, and storm damage repairs.
