Press Advantage Positions Brands for AI-Powered Search Era as ChatGPT and Claude Transform Information Discovery

March 03, 2026

Las Vegas, NV - March 03, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Press Advantage, the full-service press release distribution platform, announces its strategic positioning to help businesses establish authoritative presence across AI-powered search systems including ChatGPT, Claude, and Google's AI Mode. The company's extensive network of over 800 verified media placements provides businesses with a critical advantage as artificial intelligence increasingly shapes how consumers discover information and make purchasing decisions.

The transformation from traditional search engine results to AI-powered responses represents a fundamental shift in how brands must approach digital visibility. Press Advantage's distribution network, which includes exclusive access to USA Today and 230 additional news outlets, creates permanent media placements that serve as foundational training data for large language models powering today's AI assistants.

"The window for establishing brand authority in AI systems is narrowing rapidly," stated Jeremy Noetzelman, CEO of Press Advantage. "Unlike traditional SEO where rankings fluctuate daily, once AI models learn and validate a brand through credible news sources, that knowledge becomes embedded in their responses.

Companies that act within the next 18 to 24 months will secure a competitive advantage that becomes increasingly difficult for competitors to overcome."

Press Advantage for AI search optimization differs fundamentally from conventional digital marketing strategies. When businesses distribute press releases through the platform's verified news network, these publications become part of the training data that shapes how AI systems understand and recommend brands. This creates a protective moat around established brands, as AI systems prioritize information from credible news sources over promotional content.

The platform's approach addresses a critical challenge facing businesses today. As consumers increasingly rely on AI assistants for recommendations and information gathering, brands without established media presence risk becoming invisible in AI-generated responses. Press Advantage's network ensures that when AI systems search for industry information, they encounter authoritative news content about client brands across hundreds of trusted sources.

Recent industry data indicates that AI-powered search features are rapidly becoming the default method for information discovery, with major search engines integrating AI responses directly into results pages. This shift makes traditional search engine optimization less effective, as users receive synthesized answers without visiting individual websites.

"Businesses need to understand that AI doesn't browse websites the way humans do," explained Noetzelman. "These systems learn from established, credible sources, particularly news outlets. Our distribution network provides exactly the type of authoritative content that AI systems prioritize when forming responses about brands and industries."

The Press Advantage LinkedIn presence showcases the company's commitment to educating businesses about this evolving landscape. Through regular updates and resources, the platform helps companies understand how press release distribution creates lasting digital authority that transcends traditional marketing metrics.

Founded in 2011 by Velluto Tech Incubator and headquartered in Las Vegas, Nevada, Press Advantage serves over 16,672 businesses with comprehensive press release writing and distribution services. The company employs US-based writers and editors who craft newsworthy content designed to meet editorial standards while establishing lasting brand authority across digital platforms. The platform's unique combination of widespread distribution, editorial quality, and strategic positioning for AI search makes it an essential tool for businesses navigating the transition to AI-powered information discovery.
