NICOSIA, CY - March 03, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Boutique Professional Services Firm Strengthens Cross-Border Support for International Businesses Worldwide Following 2024 Global Excellence Award Recognition

Highworth (Cyprus) Ltd, a boutique professional services firm based in Nicosia, has announced the expansion of its integrated corporate services offerings to businesses worldwide. The announcement follows the firm's recent recognition with the 2024 Global Excellence Award from Acquisition International. It represents a strategic response to growing demand for compliance-driven corporate solutions across multiple jurisdictions.

The expanded service delivery focuses on providing comprehensive company formation, international tax advisory, professional fiduciary services, and accounting solutions to private and corporate clients operating across global markets. Established in 2017, Highworth (Cyprus) Ltd has developed specialised expertise in navigating the complex regulatory requirements affecting businesses with cross-border operations spanning multiple continents.

Cyprus's strategic geographic position at the crossroads of Europe, the Middle East, and Asia has positioned the jurisdiction as an increasingly attractive base for international business operations. The island nation's European Union membership, extensive network of over 65 double-taxation treaties, and 15 per cent corporate tax rate provide significant advantages for companies seeking efficient cross-border structuring solutions. Highworth (Cyprus) Ltd has leveraged these jurisdictional benefits while prioritising economic substance requirements and full compliance with Cyprus, EU, and OECD regulatory standards.

Cyprus continues to attract sophisticated international businesses seeking substance-driven corporate solutions that align with evolving global regulatory frameworks," said Rovertos Hanadjias, Managing Director of Highworth (Cyprus) Ltd. "The expansion of our integrated services to serve clients globally responds directly to client demand for professional advisors who understand both local regulatory requirements and international compliance standards. Our boutique firm model enables us to deliver personalised, senior-level attention that larger corporate service providers cannot match. At the same time, our multidisciplinary team ensures clients receive coordinated solutions across all aspects of their international operations."

The firm's expanded service delivery encompasses eleven core service lines, including corporate solutions, administration services, banking and payment solutions, professional fiduciary services, fund administration, accounting and audit, tax and VAT advisory, consulting solutions through affiliate HW Comprehensive Business Solutions Ltd, legal services, immigration and migration support, and real estate solutions. This comprehensive approach addresses the complexity international businesses face when managing multiple professional service providers across different jurisdictions.

Recent business development activities have reinforced Highworth (Cyprus) Ltd's commitment to serving global markets. The firm's representatives undertook strategic visits to key business centres in 2024, including Warsaw, Poland, and Beirut, Lebanon, and participated in the Dubai Doers Summit in 2025. These initiatives have strengthened relationships with international business communities while providing direct insights into evolving market requirements and regulatory developments.

The firm's Managing Director positions Highworth (Cyprus) Ltd as sitting "at the crossroads of three continents in Nicosia," emphasising the strategic advantages Cyprus offers for businesses requiring coordinated operations across Europe, the Middle East, and Asia. This geographic positioning has facilitated the firm's expansion into Far East markets, including Hong Kong, with strategic ambitions for Singapore operations in future development phases.

Highworth (Cyprus) Ltd's approach prioritises economic substance compliance, a critical consideration for international businesses following the implementation of the OECD Base Erosion and Profit Shifting initiatives and the EU Anti-Tax Avoidance Directives. The firm coordinates all elements required for a genuine operational presence, including recruiting qualified employees, securing suitable office premises in Cyprus's commercial districts, and documenting authentic decision-making activities within the jurisdiction. This substance-focused methodology ensures client structures withstand regulatory scrutiny while supporting efficient business operations.

The firm's affiliate network enhances service delivery across target markets. Highworth International Corporate Services, based in Ras Al Khaimah, United Arab Emirates, provides regional support for client projects and facilitates coordination between operations worldwide. HW Comprehensive Business Solutions Ltd delivers specialised recruitment and payroll services, while Highworth Evolution Ltd focuses on outsourcing solutions for international businesses.

The firm serves industry sectors including architecture, business consulting, construction, e-commerce, fintech, forensics, medical and pharmaceutical operations, physiotherapy, retail, technology development, and telecommunications. This diverse client base reflects the broad applicability of Cyprus corporate services across multiple business models and operational structures.

The firm operates from offices at 34 Falirou Street, Nicosia, positioning it within one of Cyprus's prominent commercial districts alongside major professional services firms, banking institutions, and corporate headquarters. Nicosia District accounts for the largest share of business spending in Cyprus, supported by government transformation projects and tertiary education institutions that maintain a skilled talent pipeline. The location is approximately 25 minutes from Larnaca International Airport, providing convenient access for efficient client consultations and business meetings.

Access to global markets represents a key competitive advantage for Cyprus-based professional services. The jurisdiction's EU membership provides passport rights and regulatory alignment with European directives, while cultural and business ties to markets worldwide facilitate cross-border coordination. Cyprus's regulatory framework, overseen by the Cyprus Securities and Exchange Commission, provides a robust framework for investment funds, holding companies, and international trading operations.

The 2025 Global Excellence Award from Acquisition International recognised Highworth (Cyprus) Ltd's commitment to delivering exceptional corporate, tax, fiduciary, and accounting services through a boutique firm model that emphasises senior-level professional involvement and relationship-driven advisory services. Award criteria included service quality, client satisfaction, innovation in service delivery, and demonstrated expertise in complex international structures.

Highworth (Cyprus) Ltd maintains business hours Monday through Friday from 8:30 AM to 5:30 PM Cyprus time, with after-hours availability for existing and prospective clients across different time zones. The firm's commitment to responsive service delivery includes direct access to experienced senior professionals and coordination of all professional services under a unified advisory framework.

Highworth (Cyprus) Ltd is a boutique professional services firm established in 2017, providing integrated corporate, tax, fiduciary, banking, accounting, fund administration, legal, and consulting services to private and corporate clients globally. Based in Nicosia, Cyprus, the firm delivers compliance-driven solutions aligned with Cyprus, EU, and OECD regulatory standards through a multidisciplinary team that emphasises senior-level expertise and personalised client service.
