Beabies' latest offering, the teething necklace and bracelet with round beads are getting good responses from the customers. The product combo has got a number of five star reviews on the online marketplace Amazon.com.

The new baby teething jewelry by Beabies are getting positive reviews from buyers across the country. Most of the customers have rated the product combo with 5 stars on the biggest online marketplace Amazon.com. Experts of the field see that the quality of the product and affordable price tag are the major reasons behind the popularity and the same is likely to head north in the times to come as well.

Kids enjoy chewing the teether provided by the company and the product aids in relieving teeth and gum pain. When contacted a representative of the company said, "We are happy to get five star review ratings on Amazon.com. We have worked really hard developing a product that is safe for kids to chew. We understand the concern of mothers for their kids, and keeping that in mind we are selling products that can be enjoyed by babies without causing any harm." He further added, "We would like to continue with the same success in times to come as well."

The teether necklace and bracelet are 100 percent safe and have gone through many tests and experiments before being sold on Amazon.com. They are made of good quality BPA free, FDA approved food grade silicone. Materials including vinyl, phthalates, plastic, nitrosamines, cadmium, or heavy metals have been avoided in the production.

Teethers are soft to chew and look stylish. They can be worn as jewelry by mothers as well. There are four different color options and fashionable moms can mix and match the teething jewelry with their clothes for a different look.

When asked, one of the buyers said, "The teething necklace and bracelet are simply amazing. They are beneficial for my baby and me. My baby is always occupied chewing them. I wear the teething necklace and get lots of compliments from my friends and relatives. I would definitely recommend this product to all the mothers who have a young baby.?
