

HHI Windows and Doors Celebrates Successful Grand Opening of Newly Renovated Bluffton Showroom

March 05, 2026

BLUFFTON, SC - March 05, 2026 -
HHI Windows and Doors marked the successful grand opening of its newly renovated showroom at 32 Malphrus Rd, Unit 117, Bluffton, SC 29910, with a public Showroom Open House on February 28, 2026, followed by a formal Ribbon Cutting Ceremony with the Hilton Head Island-Bluffton Chamber of Commerce on March 2, 2026.

The two-part event series welcomed homeowners, builders, architects, designers, and community leaders to explore the upgraded space, which is designed as an experience-driven environment rather than a traditional display-only showroom. HHI Windows and Doors guests were invited to walk through full-size window and door installations, interact with working models, and see firsthand how different configurations, frame materials, and glass packages function.

The new HHI Windows and Doors showroom is intended to serve as a working resource center for product exploration, design collaboration, and project planning for both remodeling and new construction projects. Instead of presenting products as isolated samples, the layout mirrors real home conditions so visitors can better understand how windows and doors will look, feel, and operate in everyday use.

?Bringing clients into a space where they can experience windows and doors at full scale changes the way decisions get made,? said Richard Barron, owner of HHI Windows and Doors. ?Our newly renovated showroom is all about helping Lowcountry residents and trade partners see how design, performance, and long-term value come together before they commit to a window or door project.?

During the grand opening events, HHI Windows and Doors team members guided guests through multiple feature areas that highlighted the showroom?s curated selection of premium window and door products. Visitors were able to compare operating windows, entry doors, patio doors, and specialty systems side by side, evaluating sightlines, profiles, hardware, finishes, and color tones in context.

The entry and vestibule area served as a major focal point of the event, demonstrating how a thoughtfully designed front entry system can elevate curb appeal and set the architectural tone for the rest of the home. This zone features an oversized pivot door from Western Window Systems, a ProVia entry door, and iron sidelights, arranged to show how scale, material, glass, and detailing work together in a cohesive composition.

Throughout the showroom, window displays are organized to demonstrate performance and functionality in realistic configurations. Interactive installations showcase multiple operating styles, frame materials, and glass combinations, allowing guests to see how ventilation, natural light, energy efficiency, and sightlines change from one product to another.

Complementing the window displays, dedicated door zones feature full-size entry and interior doors with an emphasis on both style and practicality. Visitors can examine panel patterns, glass insert options, hardware pairings, and finish choices while learning about security, durability, and maintenance expectations for each type of door.

One of the most talked-about aspects of the upgraded space during the grand opening was ?The Lab,? a hands-on design environment at the heart of the showroom. Anchored by a ProVia window wall featuring casement and awning systems. The area is being developed to support full-room and whole-home concept planning, with planned additions such as interior doors, closet systems, custom millwork, cabinetry, tile, and wallpaper.

To support more complex projects that require detailed coordination, the showroom includes a dedicated conference room that was active throughout the grand opening events. In this space, homeowners, builders, and design professionals can meet with the HHI Windows and Doors team to review drawings, specifications, budgets, and schedules in a focused setting.

Behind the scenes, the renovated space also includes updated office and collaboration areas that support tighter coordination among sales, project management, and installation teams. This organizational layout helps the window replacement company connect insights gathered during showroom visits directly to project execution in the field.

Guests at the grand opening were also able to enjoy a planned lounge area designed as a hospitality-focused space within the showroom. The lounge gives visitors a comfortable place to pause between zones, review samples, and discuss options with family members or project partners.
