Certification Coaching Organization, LLC (CCO), which is based in Oceanville, New Jersey, has announced that their YouTube channel has recently surpassed one million views. The company provides free, informative videos that offer answers to medical coding questions, career advice, and other topics related to the field. Laureen Jandroep, CEO and President of CCO, states, "We are thrilled that our Medical Billing and Coding YouTube Channel has been so helpful to those in this field. We strive to provide top quality videos and cover as many topics as we can."

Jandroep says that some of the videos on the company's new YouTube channel are segments from their popular, free Q&A webinar for medical coders and billers. She says, "Our aim is to provide all of the medical coding online courses you need to get certified. We also offer these videos as a sort of study guide if you will. They're filled with information that you can use to determine if this is the right career path for you, or to prepare for certification."

The company's free Q&A webinar is held on the fourth Thursday of every month and include more than 1,200 medical coders and students. During the webinar, those joining will be able to ask industry experts questions about coding, and learn the latest on updates in the coding and medical billing industry.

Jandroep says that some attendees will be eligible to earn 1.5 AAPC CEUs during the webinar as well. More information on this can be seen on the company's official website. The webinar will also include the chance to win free products from CCO.

The company states that overall, launching the YouTube channel has been a huge success, with more than one million video views to date. They state that they will be regularly updating the videos, offering more and more information to students and those working in the medical coding and billing field.

Those interested in learning more about Certification Coaching Organization, LLC or anyone who wishes to see the YouTube videos that the company states have taken the medical coding world by storm, can find them on the official company website.
