

Tiles Workshop Expands Turkish Mosaic Lamp Workshop Offerings Across Ten States Following Love of Creatives Podcast Feature

March 12, 2026

Dallas, TX - March 12, 2026 -
Tiles Workshop LLC, a Dallas-based creative experiences company specializing in hands-on creative experiences, continues its expansion across ten states following founder Matt Yigit's recent appearance on the For the Love of Creatives podcast. The company now operates more than 20 workshop locations nationwide, offering Turkish Mosaic Lamp-making experiences that blend traditional craftsmanship with modern experiential learning.

The expansion comes as demand for in-person creative experiences continues to grow, with the company's Turkish Mosaic Lamp Workshop attracting individuals, corporate groups, and tourists seeking authentic cultural activities. The workshops guide participants through the centuries-old art of Turkish mosaic lamp creation, incorporating traditional techniques passed down through Byzantine and Ottoman traditions.

"When participants first work on their mosaic pieces, they often focus on what they perceive as flaws and imperfections," said Matt Yigit, founder and CEO of Tiles Workshop LLC. "But when the lamp illuminates for the first time, those same imperfections become part of the beauty. This transformation mirrors what we're seeing in the broader economy - people are seeking experiences that technology cannot replicate, moments of genuine human connection and creativity."

The company's growth trajectory reflects broader trends in experiential learning and cultural tourism. Starting from a single workshop with ten attendees in Dallas, Tiles Workshop LLC now serves customers across Texas, Illinois, Ohio, Arizona, Missouri, Kansas, Georgia, California, Minnesota, and Oklahoma. Each location offers the signature Turkish mosaic lamp experience, complete with complimentary Turkish coffee, and baklava, creating an immersive cultural environment.

Beyond the in-person workshops, Tiles Workshop LLC has developed Turkish Mosaic Lamps DIY kits that ship nationwide, allowing customers to experience the traditional art form from their homes. These comprehensive kits include colored glass pieces, brass frames, LED lighting components, and detailed instructions, making the ancient craft accessible to a wider audience.

Corporate clients have increasingly turned to Tiles Workshop LLC for team-building events and employee wellness programs. Fortune 100 companies have hosted sessions as year-end celebrations and engagement initiatives, recognizing the value of shared creative experiences in building workplace connections.

The company has also expanded its creative offerings to include glass painting workshop sessions in multiple Texas locations. These workshops follow a similar hands-on approach, providing all materials and expert instruction while maintaining the emphasis on cultural appreciation and personal creativity.

Yigit's journey from corporate IT professional to cultural arts entrepreneur, detailed in his podcast appearance, represents a growing trend of professionals creating businesses centered on human experience and cultural preservation. His mathematical background influences the company's systematic approach to expansion while maintaining quality and authenticity across all locations.

Tiles Workshop LLC operates through a partnership model that prioritizes instructor quality and cultural authenticity. The company selects instructors based on their ability to create welcoming environments and share cultural knowledge, ensuring consistency across all locations while allowing for local community integration.

The company's recognition by regional tourism boards, including Visit Dallas and Visit Plano, underscores its role in promoting cultural arts as economic drivers in American cities. As experiential learning continues to gain prominence, Tiles Workshop LLC demonstrates how traditional crafts can thrive in contemporary markets through thoughtful adaptation and genuine cultural engagement.
