Washington Staffing Agencies Hosted Own Streaming Of Refresh Leadership Live Simulcast

April 20, 2016

April 20, 2016 -
Bellevue, Washington based temporary staffing agency, Express Employment Professionals, has revealed that they had hosted their own streaming of the Refresh Leadership Live Simulcast that was held on April 13, 2016. The company states that their own live streaming was made available at the Bellevue Hilton from 8:30 a.m. until 12:25 p.m.

Laura Gardiner, spokesperson for the company, states, "We would like to thank everyone who joined us for this streaming event, as it contained valuable information that can help people throughout their leadership careers."

Express offers assistance with employment in Bellevue, WA, particularly in matching people with companies that need them and vice-versa. Gardiner says that they had hosted the live streaming event in the hopes that they can help those working in leadership or anyone who plans to make that step on the career ladder.

"Leadership sounds fabulous but it's often harder than people think," Gardiner states. "This event was a wonderful way to help prepare themselves for a future role in leadership or if they're already working in this field, it was a great way to make themselves even better leaders."

The company states that they currently have a number of job openings and those needing help with their job search in Bellevue, WA, can contact them to learn more about what they have available. The agency works with employers and employees to help fit the two together in a mutually rewarding collaboration.

Gardiner says that those interested in applying for or obtaining a leadership position would have found valuable information from the leadership and development experts who spoke at the event. Speakers included 15-time NBA All Star and TV sports analyst Shaquille O'Neal; Professor Marshall Goldsmith, who is an author and an executive coach; and Kaplan Mobray, a career consultant, motivational speaker and author. The information provided by these speakers can help people prepare them for their roles in leadership or in becoming more comfortable with the thought of leading others in the workplace.

Express Employment Professionals in Bellevue, WA, offers assistance for employers and job seekers in a number of industries and specific fields. Those interested in searching for a job or employees to fill an open position can learn more about the agency on their official website.
