

Algo Trading Space and BlackBull Markets Team Up to Put Professional Expert Advisors in More Traders' Hands

March 16, 2026

ELIN PELIN, BG - March 16, 2026 -

Algo Trading Space, an algorithmic trading education and tools platform, has announced that BlackBull Markets has formally joined its free Expert Advisor campaign, making the initiative accessible to a broader audience of traders through the broker's own promotional channels. BlackBull Markets has now hosted a dedicated landing page on its website to promote the program, deepening the collaboration between the two organizations.

The campaign, which launched in late 2025, provides traders who open a new live account with a participating broker the opportunity to receive a complimentary Expert Advisor (EA) license at no additional cost. Under the arrangement with BlackBull Markets, traders who open a new account and deposit a minimum of $2,000 become eligible for a Tier 1 Expert Advisor license from the Algo Trading Space catalog. Those who deposit $5,000 or more qualify for a Tier 2 license, which provides access to a wider selection of automated trading tools. The promotion applies exclusively to accounts opened through designated affiliate links after the campaign's November 2025 launch date; existing accounts with the broker do not qualify.

Petko Aleksandrov, Founder of Algo Trading Space, described the development as a direct response to growing demand for accessible automated trading tools. "Many traders understand the potential of automated strategies but face barriers when it comes to the upfront costs of professional-grade tools," Aleksandrov said. "This arrangement with BlackBull Markets addresses that gap in a straightforward and transparent way."

The cost of each Expert Advisor license is covered through the partnership's commission structure rather than passed on to the trader. Algo Trading Space receives a portion of the broker's marketing allocation when traders register through the affiliated links, which in turn funds the license request made on each trader's behalf. The arrangement does not affect deposited capital.

BlackBull Markets, founded in 2014 and regulated by the Financial Markets Authority of New Zealand as well as the Financial Services Authority of Seychelles, provides ECN trading access across more than 26,000 instruments on the MetaTrader 4 and MetaTrader 5 platforms. The broker also offers complimentary virtual private server hosting, which Algo Trading Space notes is a relevant feature for traders intending to run Expert Advisors continuously on live accounts.

The process for claiming an Expert Advisor through the campaign involves a verification procedure. After funding a qualifying account through the designated affiliate link, traders are required to submit an application form alongside a screenshot of their MetaTrader platform, showing both the Account History tab and the Navigator window with the account username visible. Algo Trading Space then verifies eligibility and requests the appropriate license from the vendor on the applicant's behalf. License delivery takes place via email, typically within 24 to 48 hours of approval.

Algo Trading Space maintains publicly available live trading records for Expert Advisors deployed across BlackBull Markets accounts. The catalog spans multiple currency pairs and market approaches, including trend-following configurations, scalping strategies, and multi-pair setups across both forex and commodity instruments.

Aleksandrov noted that BlackBull Markets formally promoting the campaign through its own channels represents a meaningful development for the program's reach. "Having BlackBull Markets bring this to their own clients means the barrier to entry for algorithmic trading becomes even lower," he said. "Traders can now discover this through their broker directly, rather than having to seek it out independently."

Traders interested in participating can review full eligibility requirements and the available Expert Advisor catalog through the free Expert Advisor campaign page at algotradingspace.com/free-ea.
