

Homeward Environmental Celebrates Milestone Achievement with Perfect BBB Record and Expanded Service Area

March 20, 2026

March 20, 2026 -
Homeward Environmental LLC, a leading provider of drainage and water management solutions, has achieved a significant milestone by maintaining a complaint-free record with the Better Business Bureau throughout 2024 while earning 80 five-star reviews on Google. The company has also announced an expansion of its service territory to include Bloomington and Anderson, Indiana.

The environmental services company, which specializes in French drains, buried downspouts, yard drainage, retaining walls, gutters, and gutter guards, has demonstrated consistent excellence in customer service and project execution. The achievement of zero BBB complaints while accumulating 80 five-star Google reviews reflects the company's commitment to quality workmanship and customer satisfaction.

"Achieving a complaint-free year while expanding our reach demonstrates our team's dedication to delivering exceptional drainage and water management solutions," said Todd Bell of Homeward Environmental. "Every project we undertake, from installing French drains to building retaining walls, receives the same level of attention to detail and commitment to excellence that has earned us the trust of 80 satisfied customers who took the time to share their positive experiences."

The expansion into Bloomington and Anderson represents a strategic growth initiative for the company, which has built its reputation on providing comprehensive water management solutions for residential and commercial properties. The extended service area will allow more property owners to access the company's expertise in preventing water damage and managing drainage challenges.

Homeward Environmental specializes in addressing complex water management issues through various solutions. French drains redirect surface water and groundwater away from structures, preventing foundation damage. Buried downspouts channel water away from buildings, reducing the risk of basement flooding and crawl space moisture problems. The company's yard drainage systems prevent water accumulation that can damage landscapes and create unusable outdoor spaces.

Retaining walls serve dual purposes in the company's service portfolio, managing slopes and preventing soil erosion while enhancing property aesthetics. Gutter installation and maintenance services, along with gutter guard systems, complete the comprehensive approach to water management by ensuring proper roof drainage and reducing maintenance requirements.

"Our growth into new markets comes at a time when property owners are increasingly aware of the importance of proper drainage and water management," added Bell. "The combination of our proven track record, as evidenced by our BBB accreditation and perfect complaint record, positions us to serve these new communities with the same excellence our existing customers have come to expect."

The company maintains strict adherence to industry standards and local regulations in all operations, ensuring that environmental hazards are properly mitigated. Each project receives personalized attention, with solutions tailored to address specific property challenges and customer requirements.

Homeward Environmental LLC continues to focus on delivering customized drainage and water management solutions throughout its expanded service territory. The company's comprehensive approach to environmental services includes assessment, design, installation, and maintenance of systems that protect properties from water damage while preserving and enhancing outdoor spaces.
