

RI HVAC Service Company To Open New Store Front

April 11, 2016

April 11, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Cassana HVAC, which is based in Cranston, Rhode Island, has announced that they will be opening a new store front in the coming months. The new location will be found in 1343 Plainfield Pike, Johnston, Rhode Island.

Phil Mills, spokesperson for the heating and air conditioning company says, "We couldn't be more pleased to be at a point in our business where it's necessary to have a new store front."

The company states that the planning for the new location is already underway and that they hope to be operating from their store in Plainfield Pike within a few short months. Mills says that in celebration of the new store front, the company is also offering customers a spring special, with air conditioning tune ups costing only $99 until further notice.

Cassana HVAC is a family owned and operated company that provides heating, air conditioning, plumbing, and general contracting services. They provide all phases of heating such as gas and propane, and offer services for both residential and commercial clientele.

The RI HVAC services company has a master plumber, master pipefitter, and master refrigeration expert on staff and provides electrical and general contracting work, depending on the needs of their customers. The company states that while subcontractors may be needed at times, more than 90 percent of all work done by the company is done by their staff.

"We strive to provide only the highest quality of services," says Mills. "If you're looking for more information, or just to connect with us, we always appreciate people following our Facebook page."

Cassana HVAC is a top contractor in the Cranston area, with many years of service, a fact that Mills states is why they need a new location. He says that the new store front will give them the ability to provide services to a larger number of customers, and reach a wider range with regards to service area.

Home or business owners interested in learning more about the company or those who would like information on precisely when the new store front will be opened, can use the Google My Business link to connect with Cassana HVAC or visit them on their official website.
