

daylight AG Enhances Student Information System Platform for Swiss Educational Institutions

April 02, 2026

Winterthur, ZH - April 02, 2026 - daylight AG, a leading Swiss educational technology provider, has announced significant enhancements to its comprehensive software platform designed to streamline administrative operations for schools and educational organizations throughout Switzerland. The Winterthur-based company has refined its integrated system to better serve the evolving needs of modern educational institutions seeking efficient digital management solutions.

The enhanced platform combines school administration, course management, examination processing, event coordination, and accounting functions into a single, modular system. These improvements address the growing demand from Swiss educational institutions for more sophisticated tools to manage complex administrative tasks while maintaining focus on educational outcomes. Educational institutions across Switzerland face increasing pressure to modernize their administrative processes while managing limited resources. The latest developments from daylight AG respond to these challenges by providing schools with integrated tools that reduce administrative burden and improve operational efficiency. The company's software solutions enable institutions to automate routine tasks, improve data management accuracy, and allocate more resources toward student success initiatives.

The platform's architecture allows for seamless integration with existing institutional systems, offering both cloud-based and on-premises deployment options. This flexibility ensures that schools of varying sizes and technical capabilities can implement the solution according to their specific requirements and infrastructure constraints.

Key capabilities of the enhanced platform include automated registration management, comprehensive resource allocation tools, integrated financial accounting, and sophisticated customer relationship management features. The system also enables institutions to create customized online portals for course registration, payment processing, and communication with students and parents.

Swiss educational institutions have increasingly recognized the importance of digital transformation in maintaining competitive advantages and meeting stakeholder expectations. The comprehensive nature of daylight AG's platform eliminates the need for multiple disparate systems, reducing complexity and total cost of ownership for educational organizations.

The company's commitment to Swiss-developed solutions ensures compliance with local regulations and data protection requirements, a critical consideration for educational institutions handling sensitive student information. The platform's multilingual capabilities further support Switzerland's diverse linguistic landscape, enabling institutions to serve their communities effectively.
