

Nat Greene Landscape Expands Commercial Maintenance Services

March 30, 2026

GREENVILLE, SC - March 30, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Nat Greene Landscape, a commercial landscaping company based in Greenville, South Carolina, has announced an expansion of its landscape maintenance services for commercial clients across the Upstate South Carolina region. The company serves a range of property types including office parks, retail centers, multifamily communities, healthcare facilities, and municipal properties, and is extending its maintenance programs to accommodate a growing number of multi-location and portfolio accounts seeking centralized landscape management under a single service provider.

The expansion reflects increased demand from commercial property managers and facility directors seeking consistent outdoor maintenance across multiple properties without the complexity of managing separate vendor relationships at each location. The Upstate South Carolina commercial real estate market has seen considerable growth in recent years, driving greater need for professionally managed landscape programs that align with corporate property standards and scheduled service documentation requirements.

"Commercial property owners and managers are looking for consistency across their portfolios," said Jason Forister, Owner of Nat Greene Landscape. "They need a landscaping partner who can arrive on schedule, document service activity, and maintain the same standard at every location. That is what we have built our operation to deliver."

Nat Greene Landscape offers commercial clients a comprehensive range of outdoor services, including weekly and seasonal maintenance programs, landscape design and installation, irrigation and drainage management, LED lighting systems, tree care, and emergency storm response. Maintenance programs are structured to meet the specific scheduling and compliance requirements of commercial clients, including hospitals, schools, HOA communities, and government properties.

The company has also formalized a multi-location management tier for property management firms and corporate clients overseeing several sites across the region. This centralized service structure allows clients to consolidate vendor relationships, standardize maintenance documentation, and reduce the coordination overhead associated with managing multiple landscape contractors simultaneously.

"Managing several properties through separate vendors creates inconsistency and unnecessary administrative work for facility teams," Forister noted. "Our goal is to provide one point of contact, one service standard, and a consistent reporting structure across every property in a client's portfolio."

Commercial property managers across industries such as healthcare, retail, and multifamily housing face increasing pressure to maintain well-kept grounds that reflect positively on their tenants, residents, and visitors. A professionally maintained landscape contributes to property values, tenant satisfaction, and the overall perception of a well-managed facility. Nat Greene Landscape has structured its commercial programs to meet these expectations with consistent crew deployment, documented service logs, and direct communication with facility teams after each visit.
