

Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite Addresses Common Divorce Concerns for Florida Residents in Nassau County

March 31, 2026

JACKSONVILLE, FL - March 31, 2026 -
Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite, a Jacksonville-based law firm with offices in Fernandina Beach, has expanded its educational outreach to help Nassau County families better understand the divorce process in Florida. Building on a recent announcement about comprehensive divorce guidance services, the firm now addresses the most frequent questions and concerns individuals face when considering divorce proceedings.

The Fernandina Beach office provides Nassau County residents with local access to three Board Certified Marital & Family Law Experts who regularly assist families navigating the complexities of Florida divorce law. The firm recognizes that individuals contemplating divorce often struggle with understanding their rights and options before making critical decisions that will affect their families for years to come.

"Many people in Nassau County approach our office with similar concerns about how divorce will impact their children, their finances, and their future," said Jay Henderlite, Board Certified Marital & Family Law

Expert at Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite. "Understanding the process and knowing what to expect can significantly reduce anxiety and help families make more informed decisions during this challenging time."

Child custody arrangements and parenting plan development represent primary concerns for divorcing parents in the Fernandina Beach area. Florida law requires comprehensive parenting plans that address time-sharing schedules, decision-making authority, and communication methods between parents. The firm assists clients in understanding how courts evaluate factors such as each parent's capacity to provide a stable environment, the child's established routines, and the geographic viability of proposed parenting arrangements.

Financial considerations present another significant area of concern for Nassau County residents facing divorce. Florida's equitable distribution laws require careful analysis of marital versus non-marital assets, business valuations, and retirement account divisions. The firm helps clients understand how property division works under Florida law, including the classification of assets acquired before and during marriage, the treatment of inherited property, and the valuation of complex assets such as professional practices or closely-held businesses.

The emotional and logistical challenges families face during divorce proceedings often prove overwhelming without proper guidance. The Fernandina Beach office assists clients in managing the practical aspects of separation, including temporary support arrangements, maintaining stability for children during the transition, and addressing immediate concerns about living arrangements and financial obligations.

The firm also provides guidance on alternative dispute resolution methods, including collaborative divorce and mediation services, which can help Nassau County families resolve their differences outside of court. These approaches often prove less adversarial and more cost-effective than traditional litigation, particularly when both parties commit to reaching mutually acceptable solutions.

Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite serves Clay County, Duval County, Nassau County, and St. Johns County with comprehensive family law services. The firm handles various family law matters including adoption, paternity, modifications, prenuptial agreements, and relative caregiver actions. With three Board Certified Marital & Family Law Experts serving as managing partners, the firm stands as the only practice in Northeast Florida with this distinction, providing strategic counsel to help clients navigate Florida's unique divorce laws and make informed decisions throughout the process.
