

NurseRegistry Launches Comprehensive California Parkinsons Disease Resource Guide for Families

March 26, 2026

March 26, 2026 -
NurseRegistry, a leading provider of skilled nursing services in California, has launched a comprehensive California Parkinson's Disease Resource Guide designed to connect patients and families with essential support services throughout the state. The guide addresses the growing need for accessible resources as California's Parkinson's disease community continues to expand.

The new resource guide provides detailed information about support groups, educational programs, and community services available across California's major metropolitan areas and rural regions. With more than 90,000 Californians currently living with Parkinson's disease, the guide serves as a centralized hub for families navigating the complexities of care coordination and support services.

"Families dealing with Parkinson's disease often struggle to find reliable support networks and resources in their local communities," said Josh Pangan, CEO of NurseRegistry. "This comprehensive guide consolidates vital information about support groups, educational workshops, and community programs throughout California, making it easier for families to access the help they need when they need it most."

The guide features detailed listings of support groups organized by region, including meeting schedules, locations, and specific focus areas such as newly diagnosed patients, young-onset Parkinson's, and caregiver support. Each listing provides practical information about group formats, whether meetings are held in-person or virtually, and any specialized programs offered.

NurseRegistry developed the resource guide in response to feedback from families utilizing NurseRegistry Parkinson's home care services who expressed difficulty finding local support networks. The guide encompasses resources from San Diego to Sacramento, including both English and Spanish-language support options to serve California's diverse population.

Beyond support group listings, the guide includes information about movement disorder specialists, exercise programs specifically designed for Parkinson's patients, and educational seminars hosted by medical centers and community organizations. The resource also highlights annual events, fundraising walks, and advocacy opportunities that bring the Parkinson's community together.

The complete guide can be accessed at https://www.nurseregistry.com/blog/parkinsons-disease-support-groups-in-california/ and will be updated regularly as new resources become available. NurseRegistry plans to expand the guide based on community feedback and emerging support services throughout the state.

"Creating connections between families facing similar challenges transforms the journey with Parkinson's disease," added Pangan. "Support groups provide not just emotional support but practical strategies for managing daily challenges, accessing care resources, and maintaining quality of life."

NurseRegistry has been serving California families since its founding, providing skilled nursing services through a network of over 475 licensed nurses. The company specializes in matching clients with nurses experienced in neurological conditions, including Parkinson's disease, offering both short-term visits and round-the-clock care. With experience staffing over half a million hours in nursing shifts, NurseRegistry continues to expand its resources to support families managing complex medical conditions at home.
