Giovanna Estocin- G-Spa Massage Clinic at Long Beach, CA has announced services that are designed to help transform their clients mentally and physically. The clinic states that they do not just offer a massage; they offer services that can help clients to reach a higher level of overall well-being.

A spokesperson for the spa states, "We talk with our clients about their health histories, daily activities, stress levels; anything that would affect their overall health, and we use their answers to develop a plan that is customized to each individual client."

The massage clinic invites potential clients to visit the spa on their official Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/gspamassagetherapy/>, where they can connect with and speak to the staff of licensed massage therapists.

The clinic says that part of their program is getting to know each client, and what that particular client needs. They state that once an evaluation has been done, the therapist will go over the findings, and make recommendations to clients on how they may improve their health and quality of life, as well as what customized treatment plan will work best for them. The clinic has posted a video at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=AJdd2OLdFtM&feature=youtu.be> to offer advice on how to find a medical massage clinic.

"People may be able to walk out of our spa with much more mobility, and that's what we aim for," says the spokesperson.

Holistic massage has become a popular choice for those looking to avoid painkillers and other medicine-based treatment. The clinic states that one of their first steps in this form of treatment is to make the patients aware of what is causing their problems, so that they can avoid those issues in the future. Medical massage is also incorporated as a means of preventative care and maintenance.

The clinic, with website at <http://www.g-spamassage.com/>, states that their goal is to provide clients with healing, that lasts for longer than a week, and to give them a complete mental and physical transformation.
