Phoenix Arizona Banner And Sign Company Launches New Website

April 29, 2016

April 29, 2016 -
AZ Banners, a Phoenix Arizona banner and sign company, has announced the launch of their new website. The company states that their new site allows customers to find their way around more easily.

Bill Schumann, owner of the company states, "We feel that this will make it much easier for those interested in custom banner and sign creation to have a great experience with us."

AZ Banners is a family owned and operated company that was established in 1996. Schumann states that while the company has been listed on sites such as Yahoo business and Yelp for the past few years, they simply haven't taken the time to update their own website. He says that in today's age, he felt that a company website that provided a great user-experience was long overdue.

"You have to have a website that gives the consumer examples of what they're looking for in order for people to buy from you," Schumann says. "We know that, and we're excited to have created and launched our new website. It's live now so we hope that everyone will head over and have a look."

Schumann says that the company had the website specifically designed so that those looking for AZ Banners would find it easy so they can find exactly what they are looking for and move on with their day.

Those interested in seeing the new site, or learning more about the broad range of products and services that the company offers, can visit them online at www.azbanners.com.

AZ Banners started by providing banners and signs to local Phoenix and Scottsdale businesses. Their first products were outdoor vinyl banners and they have moved up to making a number of signs and banners now, including various products that are used in trade shows around the nation.

Today, they offer A-frame signs, step and repeat banners, spinner signs, pop up banners, and much more. Schumann states that giving customers an easier way to get the products they need is what the new site is all about.
