Alexander Fine Jewelers Expands Custom Jewelry Design Services

March 30, 2026

FORT GRATIOT TOWNSHIP, MI - March 30, 2026 -
Alexander Fine Jewelers has expanded its custom jewelry design services to accommodate growing demand for personalized pieces. The program allows customers to collaborate directly with the team on creating original designs or modifying existing items to reflect individual preferences and needs.

The expanded services include full custom design consultations where clients can select metals, gemstones, and settings to develop unique jewelry. Options range from engagement rings and wedding bands to pendants, earrings, and bracelets. The process incorporates detailed sketches, wax models, and multiple review stages to ensure the final piece matches the envisioned concept.

In addition to new creations, the custom program supports remounting of heirloom stones into modern settings, resizing of rings, and alterations to existing pieces. These capabilities enable the transformation of outdated or damaged jewelry into contemporary designs while preserving sentimental value.

The expansion builds on the store's established expertise in jewelry craftsmanship. Services integrate with appraisals that provide accurate valuations using gemological tools, supporting informed decisions during the design process. Repairs complement the custom work by addressing structural issues before or after modifications.

Alexander Fine Jewelers also offers gold buying as part of its operations, providing a valuable resource for those seeking to repurpose materials into stunning custom pieces. This convenient service allows for a thorough evaluation of unused jewelry, identifying opportunities for potential incorporation into innovative new designs or offering exchange options for credit toward personalized custom projects. By choosing to recycle gold, customers can enjoy both financial benefits and the satisfaction of creating something unique and meaningful.

Established in 1992 by Alex and Jim Langolf, Alexander Fine Jewelers operates as a family-owned business in Fort Gratiot, Michigan, serving the surrounding region, including Port Huron. The father-son team founded the store with a commitment to quality craftsmanship and has since developed comprehensive services covering diamond jewelry, estate jewelry, watches, and fine jewelry.

Jim Langolf, Owner of Alexander Fine Jewelers, stated, "Custom jewelry design enables clients to create pieces that hold personal meaning. The expanded program provides structured support through each stage of the process."

The custom services utilize a range of materials, including white gold, yellow gold, rose gold, and platinum, along with various diamond cuts and colored gemstones. Clients receive guidance on design elements such as prong styles, pave settings, and engraving options to achieve desired aesthetics and durability.

This development reflects the store's ongoing investment in technical capabilities and client collaboration. The program accommodates both simple modifications and complex original creations, with timelines tailored to project scope.

Langolf added, "Through custom design, the store facilitates the realization of ideas that standard inventory may not fully address. The focus remains on precision and attention to detail in every piece."

As a jewelry store near Port Huron, MI, Alexander Fine Jewelers maintains a full suite of supporting services, including watch repairs and rhodium plating. These integrate seamlessly with custom projects to deliver complete solutions.

The family-operated business continues to emphasize quality across all offerings, with custom design serving as a core component of its operations. Clients benefit from the combined experience of the Langolf team in crafting and restoring fine jewelry, ensuring each piece is unique and special.

The expansion of custom jewelry design services strengthens Alexander Fine Jewelers' position as a premier resource for personalized jewelry solutions. This innovative program supports a range of needs from concept to completion within the local community, allowing customers to express their individual style and sentiments through exquisite handcrafted pieces.
