Cutting Horse Training Online (CHTO) is proud to offer members their first-ever clinic, entailing a two-and-a-half day session with Hall of Famer, Chubby Turner, at his ranch in Weatherford, Texas.

“CHTO has been bringing trainers to members through their computers and mobile devices since 2012,” co-founder Duncan Steele-Park said. “Now Cutting Horse Training Online will physically bring them to their doorstep through specialty clinics.”

The first clinic will be held May sixth through eighth and is available for cutters of any level. Registration is open and available for ten riders to ensure maximum attention in an intimate learning environment. The J5 Ranch offers an air-conditioned indoor arena and luxurious western-themed accommodation.

“Everybody that comes out here ‘oohs and ahhs’ over this place,” world champion cutter Chubby Turner said. “You get the feeling like you’re back in the old days. Everybody gets a kick out of it.”

The CHTO clinics are designed to help cutters gain more confidence, more understanding, more self-awareness and more skills in a hands-on learning setting.

Chubby's passion and enthusiasm for cutting is infectious-he thoroughly loves the sport of cutting and loves to help people," Steele-Park said. "If you want to build your confidence in the arena, then this would be a clinic I would recommend."

CHTO plans to offer a variety of clinics around the nation, presented by one of their many elite-level professional trainers. The company is inviting not just members, but anyone interested in cutting clinics, to contact them and let them know who, where and when they would like a clinic and CHTO will help organize it.

"It's a service we are extremely excited about bringing to the cutting horse industry as a way for anyone to get personal hands-on learning in a fun, group environment. It fast tracks your learning and skills and allows you make friends with trainers and cutters across the country," said Steele-Park.
