

Angels Landscaping & Construction Expands Into Hood County, Extending DFW Landscaping and Outdoor Construction Services to Granbury and Surrounding Communities

April 03, 2026

JOSHUA, TX - April 03, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Angels Landscaping & Construction, a Joshua-based landscaping and outdoor construction company, has formally extended its operations into Hood County, Texas, making its full range of residential and commercial services available to property owners in Granbury, Tolar, Lipan, and surrounding communities. The expansion adds Hood County to an existing service footprint spanning Johnson, Tarrant, Parker, and Denton counties across the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex.

The move follows more than 11 years of continuous operation across the DFW region, during which the company has built a client base across communities including Godley, Joshua, Burleson, Crowley, Cleburne, Alvarado, Fort Worth, Benbrook, Arlington, Mansfield, Grand Prairie, Venus, Grandview, Glen Rose, and Rio Vista. Hood County represents the company's first formal service designation west of its Johnson County base, filling a geographic gap in its coverage of the western DFW corridor.

Hood County has recorded consistent residential population growth over the past decade, driven in part by homeowners relocating from the urban DFW core to communities along Lake Granbury and the surrounding Hill Country-adjacent terrain. That growth has increased local demand for professional landscaping contractors, outdoor construction specialists, and lawn care providers capable of working with the region's varied terrain, native soil conditions, and established residential properties.

"Granbury and the surrounding Hood County communities have seen significant residential growth, and there is real demand for experienced local contractors who can handle projects at any scale," said Ivan Solorzano, owner of Angels Landscaping & Construction. "We have done work in the area on a referral basis for some time, and formalizing our presence there allows us to serve those communities more consistently and take on a broader range of projects throughout the year."

Angels Landscaping & Construction provides a full spectrum of residential and commercial outdoor services. The company's lawn care and maintenance division handles recurring lawn mowing services, scheduled lawn maintenance programs, and one-time lawn mowing service calls for residential and commercial properties of all sizes. Lawn mowing services are tailored to each property's grass type, lot size, and seasonal requirements, with crews operating across all service communities on a consistent weekly or biweekly schedule throughout the growing season.

In addition to lawn mowing services and lawn care maintenance, the company provides professional sod installation for homeowners seeking to establish or restore a full lawn. The installation process includes site evaluation, grade preparation, soil conditioning, and full sod laying, with post-installation guidance aligned to North Texas climate conditions. Sod installation services are available to Hood County clients beginning this spring season.

The company's outdoor construction capabilities extend across hardscaping, retaining wall installation, concrete services, pergola construction, deck and patio building, fence and gate installation, and masonry work. Hardscaping projects include patio installation, walkway construction, and outdoor living space design for residential properties across the service area. The company builds both stone retaining walls and concrete retaining walls, with engineering appropriate to the slope gradients and soil profiles common across Hood and Johnson counties.

Concrete services offered by the company include driveway installation, patio pours, and decorative stamped concrete finishes for residential and commercial applications. The company also designs and constructs custom wood pergolas and patio pergolas, providing property owners with permanent shaded outdoor structures built to withstand North Texas weather conditions. Deck construction, covered and open patio design, residential fence installation, gate fabrication and installation, and stone and brick masonry services are also available to clients across all counties served.

The Hood County expansion comes at the start of the spring landscaping season, when demand for lawn mowing services, sod installation, landscape design, and outdoor construction projects typically increases across North Texas. The company reports it is actively scheduling consultations for new Hood County clients and has allocated field crews to support the extended service area throughout the spring and summer seasons.

Angels Landscaping & Construction serves Godley and all communities within Johnson, Tarrant, Parker, Denton, and now Hood counties, including Granbury, Joshua, Burleson, Crowley, Alvarado, Fort Worth, Benbrook, Arlington, Mansfield, Grand Prairie, Venus, Grandview, Glen Rose, Rio Vista, Covington, Blum, Tolar, Cleburne, and Lipan. Property owners may contact the company directly to schedule a project consultation.
