

US Online Dating Assistant Company Launches Comprehensive Service To Maximize Men's Online Dating Results

April 14, 2016

April 14, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Operating mainly in the United States and the United Kingdom, Limitless Online Dating has introduced a comprehensive service to significantly improve and manage men's online dating profiles, to ensure their clients more freedom and greater success in online dating. This is a growing company of experienced and professional Online Dating Assistants for men. Their team of Online Dating Assistants consist of creative writers, photographers, comedians and dating coaches to help maximize their clients online dating profiles. The company states that their clients are mainly busy male professionals or business owners between 20 and 60 years of age, who value their time. The company helps them build better profiles that will get noticed, ensuring that their clients will meet a higher quality and quantity of women from online dating, or their money back.

CEO and Founder of the company Jonathan Laing states, "We manage our clients' entire online dating profiles from expert profile writing to photos analysis and retouching to message handling, and we even coach our clients on effective dating techniques."

Jonathan states that the company's full package, which can be found at www.LimitlessOnlineDating.com, includes everything needed to build irresistible dating profile. The Flagship package lasts around one month and guarantees their clients at least four dates with their ideal women. He states that the company will only ask for phone numbers once the women have agreed to the date suggested before relaying them to the client, and that many clients receive more than four dates in the time period.

"One of our clients got 83 matches on Tinder in just one day after optimizing his profile photos and bio," Laing says. "Over a long period of time, we have devised an effective and systematic messaging technique which significantly increases response rate and date opportunities for our clients. We also have several video testimonials of happy clients and examples of our work on our website to prove that we can deliver results."

He states that one client, who is a self-made millionaire in Las Vegas, requested that the company contact girls as far as California or New York and fly them over to meet him, provided they meet his criteria. He says the company's co-founder, Charles Moriceau, has the system so refined over many years of practice, that he got himself more than 1,000 mutual matches on Tinder when visiting Barcelona, proven and explained in this video which he uploaded at <https://youtu.be/JAdlYucOOJs>.

Laing says that the company understands the difficulties that professional men face in meeting their ideal women, and that their goal is to help these men save time and portray themselves more favourably online so that they can have a greater chance of meeting and attracting the women that they desire. The services are available now and can be viewed in full on the company's official website.

Apparently their most frequently asked question by clients is, "What if she perceived me a certain way online, but in person I'm different?" to which the company states: "This is unlikely because your profile which does most of the heavy lifting, will have been built from everything in which we have taken the time to learn about you. Our messaging is simple and to the point, and will not involve endless back and forth messaging. Either the girl likes your profile or she doesn't, and the best way to tell if there is real chemistry is to meet in person."

Another frequently asked question is: "Do you allow revisions for my dating profile?" to which the company states: "We recommend you to trust in our experience and expertise of writing hundreds of successful profiles in the past and selecting the most effective types of photos, but we will still work closely with you and make revisions or changes if there are any parts of the profile you feel unsatisfied with."

Those interested in learning more or working on improving their online dating results can connect with the company on their official Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/LimitlessOnlineDating>.

###

For more information about Limitless Online Dating, contact the company here: Limitless Online

DatingJonathan Laing+16462333112admin@LimitlessOnlineDating.com198 West 21th Street, Suite 721New York NY 10010

Limitless Online Dating

Online Dating Assistants. Our clients are mainly male busy professionals. We manage our clients' entire Online Dating Profiles from Profile Writing, Photos Analysis & Retouching, Message Handling, and even coach our clients on effective dating techniques.

Website: <http://www.LimitlessOnlineDating.com>

Email: admin@LimitlessOnlineDating.com

Phone: +16462333112

Powered by PressAdvantage.com