LIMBitless Announces Challenge For Helping The Adaptive & Wounded Veteran Communities

April 15, 2016

April 15, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

LIMBitless, Inc, based in Meridian, Idaho, has announced their upcoming Table Rock Ascent, set to take place in Boise on June 4, 2016. The company states that those attending are welcome to participate, donate, or sponsor an individual or team.

Ronald Kern, Executive Director for the non-profit organization says, "The LIMBitless Challenge is an opportunity for the adaptive and wounded veteran communities to engage in a physical experience that will empower and enable them to 'Go Beyond' their limits." Able bodies persons are also encouraged to attend and to participate, and Kern says, "This is a great way for all persons to help each other, accomplish a goal, together.

Kern states that the goal is to expand the horizons of what is possible for the participants, and to engage the local community through awareness and interaction. More about the upcoming event can be seen at <https://limbitlesslife.org/limbitless-challenge-landing-page/>.

"Through our valued partnerships," Kern says, "we hope to equip individuals with the tools they need to become more LIMBitless in their daily lives." He states that the organization hopes many will join them in the challenge or help donate or sponsor in some way.

Kern goes on to state that NHL Goalie Ryan Miller, Vancouver Canucks and 3 time member of the USA Olympic Hockey Team, supports this event with the Steadfast Foundation, which is dedicated to increasing mobility for physical challenges.

LIMBitless was created to help individuals with limb loss, paralysis, and other physical disabilities to gain a more positive approach to life through sports and physical activity. It also offers resources, recommendations, and an entire community to share perspectives and help individuals with various issues. Those interested can see more of what the organization does at <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCD9bb1dzuofSIY-rXrFQ2w?nohtml5=False>.

The organization offers an interactive website as well, where more information about the challenge can be found. The website offers various search functions in addition to detailed information about the upcoming event, and Kern states that a new magazine will be launched later in 2016, and that the organization is planning for additional resources and events in the future.
