April 19, 2016 -
WeeSprout, a consumer goods company based in Memphis, TN, has announced that their reusable food pouch has received more than 1,000 five-star reviews on the Amazon marketplace. The company feels very proud of having been able to reach this vital milestone.

Brandon Wells, co-owner and founder of the company, says, "To say we were pleased about this development would be an understatement. I mean, we are certainly proud of it. 100% customer satisfaction has always been a goal for us, but we have surpassed this milestone of more than 1,000 five-star reviews on Amazon much faster than we imagined we would."

Wells says that the company's main goal is in providing quality products to consumers. These are products that make it just a bit easier to be a parent. The food pouch was specifically designed to help parents to make feeding time less messy and a more convenient. The pouch can be refilled, is constructed of materials that are safe for children, and holds homemade baby food, which Wells states is a major benefit.

"We want to help parents feed their children healthy and nutritious foods. One of the reasons behind the design of our food pouch is to allow parents to fill it with homemade foods that are all natural and don't have those harmful chemicals and toxins that are often found in pre-packaged foods."

The pouch, which can be seen on the Amazon marketplace at http://www.amazon.com/Reusable-Food-Pouch-Pack-Homemade/dp/B00TXBSHBQ, has been a success since its initial launch, according to WeeSprout. The company states that it has been very well received since the first day, and that they are not surprised, although grateful, of the fact that it now has more than 1,000 five star reviews.

Wells states that many customers send them messages thanking them for the product, which can also be seen on the WeeSprout official website at http://www.weesprout.com.

WeeSprout also recently released a freezer tray that is designed to help parents make and preserve their own fresh baby foods. More about these and other products that the company is working on can be found on their official website. Those interested can also connect with WeeSprout on their official Facebook page.
