

Rigert Treppenlifte AG Emphasizes Importance of Regular Stairlift Maintenance for Swiss Households

April 27, 2026

Küssnacht am Rigi, SZ - April 27, 2026 -
Rigert Treppenlifte AG, a leading Swiss mobility solutions provider with over 60 years of experience, is reminding homeowners across Switzerland about the critical importance of regular stairlift maintenance as the country experiences increased demand for accessibility solutions in residential settings.

The Küssnacht-based company, which operates branches throughout German, French, and Italian-speaking regions of Switzerland, has observed a growing need for professional maintenance services as more Swiss households install mobility equipment to support aging family members and individuals with limited mobility. With thousands of stairlifts now installed across the country, proper maintenance has become essential for ensuring safety and extending equipment lifespan.

Rigert Treppenlifte AG has expanded its service capabilities to meet growing demand across all three major language regions of Switzerland. The company's technicians undergo specialized training to service various lift models, including straight and curved stairlifts, platform lifts for wheelchair users, and outdoor installations that face additional weather-related challenges. More information about the company can be found at https://pressadvantage.com/organization/rigert-treppenlifte-ag.

The company understands that regular maintenance of stairlifts and platform lifts is not just about preventing breakdowns; it's about ensuring the continuous safety and independence of users. Proper servicing can extend the life of vital mobility aids by years while maintaining optimal performance and safety standards.

The company's maintenance program addresses common issues that can develop over time, including track alignment, motor performance, and safety sensor functionality. Technicians report that many Swiss households are unaware that stairlifts require periodic professional inspection, similar to other home mechanical systems. This lack of awareness can lead to unexpected failures that temporarily strand users and require emergency repair services.

As part of the Garaventa Group, Rigert Treppenlifte AG brings extensive engineering expertise to the Swiss market. The company's comprehensive approach includes initial consultation, custom installation, and ongoing support services. Their technicians handle installations in diverse architectural settings, from historic buildings in city centers to modern suburban homes, adapting solutions to meet specific structural requirements. The aging demographic in Switzerland has created unprecedented demand for home accessibility solutions. Federal statistics indicate that nearly one in five Swiss residents is now over 65, with this proportion expected to increase significantly in the coming decade. This demographic shift has transformed stairlifts from luxury items to essential home modifications that enable seniors to remain in their homes safely.

The company has also noted increased interest from healthcare facilities and senior living communities seeking reliable mobility solutions for their residents. These institutional clients require not only quality equipment but also responsive service partnerships to minimize downtime and ensure resident safety.

Rigert Treppenlifte AG continues to invest in training programs for its technical staff, ensuring they remain current with the latest safety standards and technological advances in mobility equipment. The company maintains one of the largest customer service networks in the Swiss mobility solutions industry, with technicians available throughout the country.
