

Access Interiors Highlights Office Refurbishment Services for Businesses in Ely

August 06, 2026

Cambridge, CB - August 06, 2026 -

Access Interiors Ltd, a commercial interiors and project management company established in 1994, has drawn attention to its office refurbishment services designed to help businesses across East Anglia modernise their workspaces. The company, which operates from bases in Cambridge and Ely, reports continued demand as organisations reassess how their premises support changing patterns of work.

With more than 25 years of experience in the commercial interiors sector, Access Interiors undertakes projects of all sizes and budgets. Its work ranges from minor interior fit-outs to extensive commercial developments, with each project managed through to completion. The company works closely with clients to interpret their requirements and to deliver spaces that meet defined performance specifications while remaining within agreed budgets.

The firm provides a broad portfolio of services alongside its refurbishment work, including office design and fit-out, office space planning, office dilapidations, office relocations, and office movement management. It also supplies office interior products such as suspended ceilings, office furniture, partition systems, commercial flooring, mezzanine floors, and commercial electrical and air conditioning installations. This range allows the company to offer a complete design and build service under a single point of coordination.

Ely, described as the country's second smallest city, is well connected to towns and cities across East Anglia and the East Midlands by road and rail. This position supports the company's ability to serve a wide catchment area that includes Cambridgeshire, Buckinghamshire, Northamptonshire, Norfolk, Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire, and Lincolnshire.

Martin Dawson, a director at the company, said the focus on refurbishment reflects a wider shift in how businesses view their premises. "Many organisations are looking to make better use of existing space rather than relocate, and a well-planned refurbishment allows them to do that," he said. "The work carried out through Access Interiors - Office Refurbishment Ely is centred on understanding how a team operates and shaping the environment around those needs."

Dawson added that space planning has become an increasingly important part of the process. "Layout affects communication, workflow, and the ability to accommodate future growth," he said. "Careful planning at the outset means that a refurbished office continues to serve a business well over the longer term, rather than simply addressing present requirements."

The company's project management service offers full turnkey installation for office and factory fit-outs, coordinating contractors, suppliers, and other parties to keep work on schedule. Access Interiors notes that a significant proportion of its work comes from repeat clients, which it attributes to its approach to service and workmanship.

Access Interiors Ltd was founded in 1994 and specialises in commercial office design, fit-out, and refurbishment. Operating from offices in Cambridge and Ely, the company delivers projects across the East of England and the East Midlands, covering everything from space planning and relocations to the installation of mezzanine floors and commercial interior systems. The firm showcases completed work through featured design projects and shares guidance through its design articles.
