

Apex Custom Concrete Broadens Decorative Concrete Offerings to Meet Rising Demand for Stained Surface Solutions

April 13, 2026 -

Apex Custom Concrete has announced a significant update to its service portfolio, reinforcing its standing among concrete staining companies serving both residential and commercial markets ? a move driven by sustained client interest in decorative concrete treatments that deliver lasting visual results without requiring full surface replacement.

The updated lineup introduces a broader range of staining applications applicable to patios, driveways, walkways, and interior flooring. For property owners and project managers weighing surface renovation options, the development represents a practical pathway to combining structural preservation with customizable aesthetics ? a combination that has become increasingly central to both residential improvement projects and commercial facility upgrades.

This positions Apex Custom Concrete concrete staining companies to serve a wider segment of the market, including clients who may have previously encountered limited options when seeking decorative treatments suited to specific environments or design requirements. The company aims to accommodate projects ranging from large-scale commercial installations to targeted residential enhancements.

"Interest in concrete staining continues to rise as property owners explore alternatives to more traditional surface finishes," said Mark Baumgartner, Founder and CEO of Apex Custom Concrete. "Our expanded offerings are designed to address this demand while maintaining consistent project execution standards."

The company's growth in this service area aligns with broader trends observed across the construction and renovation sectors. Decorative concrete solutions ? and concrete staining in particular ? have gained considerable traction among property owners who prioritize materials that offer both long-term durability and design flexibility. Unlike surface replacement, staining preserves the structural integrity of existing concrete while transforming its appearance, making it an efficient and cost-effective option for a wide range of applications.

Apex Custom Concrete has also underscored the structured methodology it applies across all staining projects. Each engagement follows a defined process encompassing surface preparation, stain application, and finishing ? phases designed to produce uniform outcomes and ensure long-term surface performance. This process-driven approach reflects established industry standards and is intended to provide clients with confidence in the consistency and quality of completed work regardless of project scale or environment.

This disciplined delivery framework, combined with a deepened service offering, distinguishes Apex Custom Concrete within the competitive landscape of concrete staining companies. As the decorative concrete segment continues to grow, companies that can offer both broad capability and reliable execution are increasingly well-positioned to capture demand from discerning residential and commercial clients.

The announcement comes as the renovation sector continues to evolve, with property owners placing heightened emphasis on materials that balance performance with aesthetic adaptability. Concrete staining has emerged as a particularly versatile solution in this context, given its applicability across interior and exterior environments, its compatibility with a range of design preferences, and its ability to extend the functional life of existing surfaces.

Apex Custom Concrete's latest development reflects its ongoing effort to remain responsive to shifts in client expectations and market conditions, supporting projects that require practical surface treatments with adaptable finishes.

With these changes now in place, the company is positioned to support a growing client base seeking concrete staining solutions that meet both performance standards and design objectives, continuing to serve residential and commercial clients with a focus on consistent, high-quality results.
