

Watertight Homes Expands Damp Proofing Services Across Castleford Communities

August 12, 2026

Derbyshire, England - August 12, 2026 -

Watertight Homes Ltd has expanded its damp proofing and property preservation services throughout Castleford and the surrounding areas, bringing more than two decades of specialist expertise to residential and commercial property owners across the region.

The company, established in 2000, now provides a comprehensive range of treatments to communities including Ashby, Crosby, Frodingham, Bottesford, Brumby, Messingham, Kingsway, Town Centre, Westcliffe, and Normanby. Services span rising damp treatment, penetrating damp treatment, basement damp proofing, cellar damp proofing, structural damp proofing, condensation control, mould prevention, humidity control, wall tie replacement, and timber treatment for woodworm, dry rot, and wet rot.

Damp problems can compromise the structural integrity of a property and contribute to health concerns for occupants. The expanded service coverage from Watertight Homes - Damp Proofing Castleford aims to address these issues through diagnosis and remediation carried out by trained technicians. Each project is preceded by a survey to identify the source and extent of the damp before a treatment plan is developed.

Mathew Milner, Managing Director of Watertight Homes, said the expansion reflects growing demand for property preservation services in the area. "Damp and timber decay are among the most common problems affecting older housing stock across Yorkshire, and many property owners are unaware of the underlying causes until visible damage appears," Milner said. "By extending our coverage across Castleford, the aim is to make professional diagnosis and treatment more accessible to households and businesses dealing with these conditions."

The company holds British Board of Agrément accreditation and is Triton approved. Completed work is supported by a ten-year guarantee, a measure intended to provide assurance regarding the durability of treatments carried out.

Beyond damp proofing, Watertight Homes offers basement conversions that transform unused cellar space into functional living areas, alongside basement waterproofing and basement tanking to protect below-ground rooms from water ingress. The company also carries out cavity wall tie repair and replacement, condensation treatment, wet rot treatment, and timber preservation for properties affected by fungal decay and wood-boring insects.

Milner noted that early intervention often reduces the scale of remedial work required. "A survey conducted at the first signs of damp can prevent minor issues from developing into significant structural concerns," he said. "The approach taken by Watertight Homes - Damp Proofing Castleford begins with understanding the specific conditions of each property rather than applying a single standard solution."

The company has served families and businesses across Leeds, Manchester, and wider Yorkshire for more than 20 years. Its work has drawn positive feedback, including five-star ratings recorded on Which?, reflecting standards of service and quality reported by past clients.
