

All-On-4 Dental Implants Private Dentist Dr Chetan Mathias Recommends Consultations for Missing Teeth at Light Lane Dental Practice

April 16, 2026

COVENTRY, UK - April 16, 2026 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Light Lane Dental Practice has confirmed the availability of consultation appointments for patients in Coventry considering full-arch tooth replacement with All-On-4 dental implants. The announcement reflects continued demand for structured treatment planning among individuals experiencing extensive tooth loss or difficulties with existing dentures. Dr Chetan Mathias indicated that an initial consultation remains an essential stage in assessing whether this approach is appropriate for a particular case.

All-On-4 dental implants are used to replace a full set of teeth on the top or bottom of the mouth with just a few implants placed in the jaw. These implants are like anchors under the gum line that hold a fixed bridge of replacement teeth in place. The method focuses on stability, with the implants placed in a way that spreads pressure evenly across the jaw. This keeps the teeth attached to the implants safe while eating and talking.

According to Light Lane Dental Practice, treatment planning for All-On-4 dental implants is based on several individual factors, including bone structure, gum condition, and general oral health. Some patients may be suitable for this approach without the need for additional procedures, while others may require further assessment before a treatment plan is confirmed. The dental team noted that the process is carefully staged, with attention given to both function and appearance. Research also supports the effectiveness of implant-based approaches when appropriate protocols are followed. A 2025 study published in the International Journal of Dentistry reported an implant survival rate of 99.9%. Conducted by Goker F, Mali Rai P, De Santis D, and colleagues, the research found that careful diagnosis, personalised treatment planning, ongoing maintenance, and adherence to manufacturer guidance contributed to satisfactory clinical and radiographic outcomes in routine dental practice, highlighting the importance of long-term follow-up.

Insights into how All-On-4 dental implants make a full-arch replacement possible are available at: <https://lightlanedental.co.uk/missing-teeth/all-on-4-implants-in-coventry/>.

Consultations at Light Lane Dental Practice typically begin with a review of dental history and a discussion of current concerns related to missing teeth. The dental team carries out an examination to assess the condition of the gums and the available bone in the jaw, as these factors influence how implants may be placed. Imaging or digital scans may be used to provide a clearer view of the underlying structure before outlining possible treatment pathways.

During the consultation stage, patients learn about how All-On-4 dental implants are put in and what the treatment process might be like over time. This includes talking about how long it takes to heal, what kind of care replacement teeth need, and how they are held in place. During the appointment, people can ask questions, which helps them understand how the treatment might work for them. The practice examines each case separately to see if it is appropriate, and may talk about other options if they are more suitable.

In addition to full-arch replacement, Light Lane Dental Practice provides other dental implant treatments for patients with different patterns of tooth loss. These include single tooth implants and options for replacing several missing teeth, where implants are used to support crowns or bridges. Each approach follows a similar principle, with a small titanium post placed in the jaw to act as a foundation for a replacement tooth.

The dental team explained that consultations are structured to provide a clear overview of how different implant approaches compare. Factors such as oral hygiene, medical history, and long-term maintenance are considered as part of the planning process. This ensures that any proposed treatment aligns with the patient's overall dental condition rather than following a standard model.

Light Lane Dental Practice also provides a wider range of options for patients with missing teeth who may not be suitable for implant treatment. These may include removable dentures or other restorative approaches, depending on the individual case. The practice noted that consultations allow time to explore these alternatives and consider how each option may affect daily comfort and function.

Light Lane Dental Practice has been serving the local community for more than 40 years, providing family dentistry for both private and NHS patients. The practice stated that long-standing relationships with patients have shaped its approach to dental care, with an emphasis on clear communication and consistent monitoring of oral health over time.

The announcement highlights a continued focus on consultation-led care, where patients are given time to understand their options before making decisions about treatment. By confirming the availability of appointments for All-On-4 dental implants, Light Lane Dental Practice has indicated that individuals in Coventry seeking information about full-arch replacement can access a structured assessment based on their individual dental needs.
