Summit Scapes Construction Provides Custom Outdoor Kitchen Installations as an Established Landscaping Company

April 17, 2026

MANLIUS, NY - April 17, 2026 -
Summit Scapes Construction, a landscaping company serving Central New York, provides custom outdoor kitchen installations that create functional extensions of residential properties in the region. These installations integrate with existing landscape designs to support outdoor entertaining while accommodating local climate conditions.

The landscaping company collaborates with clients from the initial planning stage to develop outdoor kitchens suited to specific site layouts and usage needs. Features often include built-in grills, stovetops, smokers, counter space for preparation, and storage solutions such as cabinets and refrigeration units. Materials selected for the structures emphasize durability against Central New York summers and winters.

Site preparation forms an essential part of each installation. The team conducts grading, excavation, and anchoring to establish stable foundations. These steps ensure the kitchen remains level and secure over time. Many projects incorporate connections to patios or walkways, producing unified outdoor areas that blend hardscape elements with surrounding plantings.

Custom outdoor kitchen installations frequently include considerations for safety and practicality. Structures with heat-producing appliances are positioned at recommended distances from the home. The landscaping company supplies guidance on winterization steps, such as draining water lines, disconnecting utilities, and applying protective covers to safeguard components during the off-season.

Outdoor lighting installations complement many kitchen projects. Pathway, accent, and ambient lighting extend usability into evening hours. These additions coordinate with the kitchen layout and adjacent landscape features to maintain consistent design across the space.

With 13 years of operation in Kirkville and the surrounding communities, the landscaping company applies its accumulated experience to each project. Full insurance coverage applies to all work, and a one-year warranty covers installed materials with options for extended protection. Project scopes range from basic grill stations with counter space to more elaborate configurations that include multiple appliances and seating areas.

Additional elements such as sinks, ice makers, and specialized storage are integrated where plumbing and electrical infrastructure allow. These features bring indoor convenience to outdoor settings. Placement near gardens or other landscape elements creates cohesive backyard environments that support family activities.

The installations contribute to property configurations by dedicating space for meal preparation and social gatherings. Many designs feature bar seating or built-in benches that facilitate interaction. Strategic integration with nearby fire pits or play areas enhances overall backyard functionality throughout the seasons.

"Custom outdoor kitchens allow families to spend more time outside while entertaining more effectively," said Jared Van Der Veer, Owner of Summit Scapes Construction. "Our designs focus on functionality that matches the way clients actually use their backyards."

Projects vary according to client preferences and property dimensions. The landscaping company coordinates all components to achieve balanced outdoor living spaces. Tree and shrub placements around the kitchen areas provide natural screening and visual layering where appropriate.

"Every custom outdoor kitchen installation begins with understanding how the space will be used throughout the seasons," continued Van Der Veer. "This approach results in designs that deliver practical value year after year."

The landscaping company continues to incorporate client feedback into its outdoor living projects. Drainage considerations during site preparation help manage water flow around kitchen structures. These measures reduce potential issues related to seasonal precipitation and snowmelt in Onondaga County.

Outdoor kitchens often serve as central points in redesigned backyards. The landscaping company ensures that installations align with overall property goals, whether for casual family use or larger gatherings. Materials and layouts account for foot traffic patterns and maintenance requirements.
